BILL AGAINST
GOV. WALTON DRAWN UP BY LEGISLATORS

Members of Oklahoma House Complete Arrangements to Meet Saturday in Plan to Impach Executive—Will Attempt to Hold Session at Capitol.

MILITARY AGAIN IN CONTROL OF POLICE

Order Issued in Connection With Lifting of Ban on State Fair Permits Removal of Any Member of Capital City's Force.

By the Associated Press.
TULSA, Ok., Sept. 19.—Five men, indicted by Gov. J. C. Walton's Tulsa County Military Commission investigating mob violence and hooded band activities here since August, were held in civil court today, when arrested for preliminary hearings. They were the first of the 30 men now indicted by the military tribunal to be released.

Next Evans and Jake Hyde, indicted yesterday on military information charging participation in the mobbed hand's attack on the L. A. Cook home, May 26, were held in bonds of $1500 each, when arrested today before Pleas Judge J. Allen. Trial was set for Oct. 2.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Sept. 19.—Completion of arrangements for a session of the Oklahoma House of Representatives here on Saturday, to begin impeachment proceedings against Gov. Walton, is the outstanding feature of the Oklahoma military rule today.

It was announced that the House would attempt to meet in the Capitol, and that if the members were dispersed by the militia they would go to some other place, possibly outside of the city, for the session, and that in any event the session would be held.

The bill of charges against the Governor, setting out in detail the accusations on which the House is expected to ask the Senate to remove him from office, has been drawn, but so far has not been made public. It probably will not be given out for publication until the House meets.

To Seek Court Opinion.
The first step to be taken when the House members convene informally will be the adoption of a resolution to the Supreme Court for an opinion as to the right of the Legislature to convene without call from the Governor, and for the purpose of considering impeachment proceedings against the Governor.

It is expected that if the court will give an opinion that it will be ready within two or three days after the request is made. However, lawyers are doubtful that the court will be willing to pass upon the question in an informal manner and that it will notify the House members that, in view of the fact that the question has been submitted to it in a contested legal dispute, it will not deliver an advance opinion.

If this is the attitude of the court, the plan is to issue the call for the formal session to attempt to bring about the impeachment of the Governor and let the legality of the proceedings be tested on appeal by the Governor.

Closely Guarded Military Inquiry.
Military rule was made more strict Monday and greater secrecy was thrown about the proceedings of the court of inquiry which is being held to obtain evidence to support the Governor's charges that there have been Ku Klux Klan chapters in Oklahoma City and that the military and prosecuting officials are under Klan domination, a condition which he said made military rule necessary.

Militiamen were placed in the corridors near the suite in which the inquiry is being held and no person not supplied with credentials was permitted within 10 feet of the rooms. There were no statements for publication and none of the officers would discuss anything that took place at the inquiry.

Absolute military control of the Oklahoma City Police Department, which was withdrawn Monday, was retained yesterday in an order issued Continued on Page 2, Column 5.

burst early this morning flooded the region around Makanda, Ill., covering the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad so deeply that fires in the engines were extinguished. When one of the cars on the New Orleans merged district, the track softened and it could not move.

As Train No. 303, St. Louis to Cairo, reached the Makanda it found one of the cars on the New Orleans Chicago train was leaning so badly that the former could not pass until it was removed.

Homeless and nearly hopeless, these refugees trudging along the railroad tracks to get away from Tokio tell in one snapshot the story of the woe and misery of Japan.

WENTLY RAIN OF MISSILES ON HOUSE IS PUZZLE TO GUARDS

Source of Watchers Unable to Detect Source of Bombardment of Missouri Farm Home.

ALMYRA, Mo., Sept. 18.—At farm home of Emmett Swisher, Philadelphia, 12 miles east of the Sheriff, with a score of butlers, guardsmen, newspaper men and detectives, has made every effort to discover the source of a bombardment of the house with stones, apples, eggs, tomatoes, lumps of coal and numerous other missiles which began three days ago.

Swisher was summoned to Canon on a pressing business engagement. The bombardment continued steadily. There were on several occasions as many as 100 men on guard to detect the person or persons who were throwing the missiles. The performance was repeated for nights in succession and still there was no solution of the mystery.

On the evening of Sept. 10, the bombardment ceased, and was not resumed until last Friday night. This time the attack was very slight and the time guards had been assigned the disturbance ceased.

On the 15 nights that the bombardment was so furious, the attacks were at dark, and continued until before 3 o'clock in the morning. The larger the crowd on watch the heavier the bombardment.

TELEPHONE INSTALLATION CHARGES ORDERED REDUCED

Service Commission Cuts Charge for Putting in a Residence Phone to $3.

Missouri Public Service Commission at Jefferson City today ordered the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to reduce its installation charges in St. Louis and in 69 other Missouri towns and cities. The commission estimates the action will result in a saving of $50,000 annually to the subscribers affected.

The reductions ordered for St. Louis were: For installing a telephone in a residence, from $4.50 to $3.00; for connection of installation in exchanges, $2, instead of $3; for extensions within a residence, $1.50 in place of $2.50, and moving a telephone about in a house, $2.50 instead of $3.

The telephone company was ordered to discontinue its charge of $1.50 where there was a change of subscriber without a change of address. The company has also agreed from $1.50 to $3 for making connections where telephone lines already in place. A flat $1.50 was ordered substituted.

The reductions for exchanges out of St. Louis were somewhat less because of the less cost of making connections. The company had agreed to change these rates, and today's order followed reference between Edwin F. Carver, commercial manager for the company, and W. W. Johnson, telephone expert for the Service Commission.

GRAVE RENAMED PRESIDENT OF THE IRISH FREE STATE

Opposition Party to Release De Valera.

BLIN, Sept. 19.—William T. De Valera was re-elected by the Dail today as President of the Irish Free State.

Michael Hayes was re-elected leader of the Dail. A group of men staged a demonstration outside the Parliament House, where the Dail met. They carried banners demanding the release of the Republican prisoners by the Free State and announcing that "De Valera is dying."

During the Dail session Deputy leader of the farmers, who at the time were assuming the attitude of official opposition party, advocated the release of Eamon de Valera and the other Republican prisoners in prison, so that the Republican party might have an opportunity to meet and discuss its policy.

De Valera, in a vehement refusal to yield to what he considered as sentimentalism and the entrance into the Dail of who he said had done their duty by violence and had failed, must be some evidence of a broken heart, he added.

LABORATORY BURNED IN LABORATORY

TON, Ill., Sept. 19.—Four laboratories were badly burned when a torch exploded in the laboratory in the Benton Township High School today while the class was studying chemistry. The room was filled with flames, but students quickly put out the fire.

Men Kidnap and Shoot Man.

RE HAYTE, Ind., Sept. 19.—Men kidnaped and shot Otto Hayte, a garage employee, after he was working in the garage where he worked. At the end of the city, a man was thrown out of the car and shot.

WRINKLES
Gently Lifted Away
Wonderful New Method
Banishes Every Line

Thanks to a new and wonderful discovery, it is now no longer necessary for anyone to have the face disfigured by tired lines, tiny wrinkles, feet, and deep-set wrinkles. They can be smoothed away, almost as if by magic, and the face restored to its natural youthfulness and charm. This new discovery is called Domino Wrinkle Cream. The great difference between this marvelous wrinkle remover and most other treatments is that the latter attempt merely to cover up or conceal wrinkles, while Domine Wrinkle Cream gets at the cause of them. By treating the cause, each line and wrinkle is gently lifted away, leaving the complexion smooth and wonderfully youthful. Even after the first few days use, the face looks years younger than before. Now that unsightly lines and wrinkles can be made to disappear so easily, why go through life looking tired and old? Why not have a skin that is clear and smooth? Why not have the appearance and charm of youth? Domine Wrinkle Cream is guaranteed to remove each and every wrinkle, and a special $10.00 bank deposit backs up this guarantee. If you are not more than delighted with results, your money will be instantly refunded. Domine Wrinkle Cream is sold at good drug and department stores everywhere, such as: Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph, Johnson Bros., Enderle Store, Stitz, Bear & Fuller, and Nugents Department Store.

During 1933 the Post-Dispatch printed some classified instruction "Wanted"—210 more than its nearest competitor and four times as many as the TWO other St. Louis evening newspapers combined.

3 OFFICERS OF 138TH SAID TO FACE CHARGES

Complaints Grow Out of Efforts to Compel Col. C. S. Thornton to Resign.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 19.—Charges against three officers of the 138th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, are being prepared and will be filed with Adjutant-General Raupp, it was learned here today. Names of the men affected and nature of the charges were not revealed, except that the charges grow out of effort of certain officers of the regiment to compel Col. C. S. Thornton, regimental commander, to resign.

Gen. Raupp departed yesterday for Camp Perry, O., to be gone the rest of the week. Before departing he said that no charges had been filed against Col. Thornton. Further than that he declined to discuss the turmoil in the regiment which has led to the filing of two civil suits against Col. Thornton by "subordinates who asserted that they had been summarily dealt with."

If charges against the St. Louis officers are proved, which is said to be extremely probable, they will lead to the holding of a general courtmartial, to sit in St. Louis. Such a courtmartial would consist of five to 12 officers of the National Guard, chosen from other regiments by Gen. Raupp. Under Missouri statutes a courtmartial has power to impose fines up to $200, confinement up to 30 days or to sentence to forfeiture of pay and allowances, dismissal or dishonorable discharge.

Should a courtmartial result from the present disturbance in the first regiment, it will be the first in many years in the Missouri National Guard, the last one within recollection of staff officers having resulted in resignation of a Major of the First Regiment while that organization was attending a State encampment at Nevada more than 12 years ago.

POST-DISPATCH AD FINDS WOMAN

Illinois Man and Daughter Reunited After 20 Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 19.—An advertisement printed recently in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch resulted, after a search which extended over 20 years, in the finding of the daughter of C. W. Campbell of Peoria. Campbell had spent years searching the West Coast in an effort to find the girl, who had been placed in a home in Colorado after the death of her mother, the divorced wife of Campbell. Not until a friend passed through Peoria a few weeks ago did Campbell get a clue as to her whereabouts. The friend informed him that the girl was alive, married and living in St. Louis.

The advertisement got to her notice and the father and daughter were united. She came here for a visit with her father last week. She now is Mrs. Louise Price.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 18.—Sale of the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railway, ordered some time ago by the Sangamon County Court for Sept. 26, was postponed yesterday until Nov. 14. VISITED SUMMER RESORT AND DICE GAMES ON OTHERS MONEY

Young Man Tells of Spending $1225 in Less Than Four Months.

A visit to a Michigan summer resort, dice games, taxicabs and cabarets in the county represent the path along which he spent $1225, of which $737 belonged to a roomer in his mother's home and $488 to the American Trust Co. Isadore Gottesman, 22 years old, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today.

After spending this amount in less than four months, Gottesman visited the home of his mother, Mrs. Rose Gottesman, 5002 Cates avenue, where he had ceased to reside, and took two diamonds rings valued at $600. The $150 for which he sold them went in a dice game in Venice, Ill., he said.

Monday his mother caused his arrest.

Morris Gross, the roomer at the Gottesman home, told policemen yesterday that he suspected Isadore of having taken his savings account bank passbook, which he missed early in June. Gottesman confessed.

He said that on June 19 he had obtained $200 from the American Trust Co. by forging Gross' name to a withdrawal slip. Four days later he got another $200, and on July 12 got $325 more. Later he decided he wanted a two-weeks' trip to Michigan. Gross original account was for only $737. Isadore erased all but the first $200 withdrawal entry in the pass book. He then visited a different teller at the bank, and got $500.

His mother has decided not to prosecute, but the trust company will.

FOUR MEN HELD IN INQUIRY INTO MURDER ON VIADUCT

No Direct Evidence Connecting Them With the Killing of Angelo Pastori, Early Sunday.

The police, in their investigation of the murder of Angelo Pastori, who was stabbed and beaten to death and thrown from the King's highway viaduct early Sunday, today detained four men, against whom there is no direct evidence.

Pastori, who was chief at Garavelli's Cafe, DeBallviere and DeGiverville avenues, had been in charge of the buying for the cafe since the proprietor, Joseph Garavelli, departed for Italy a few weeks ago. The police have learned that Pastori, apparently on his own responsibility, made some changes in the buying of supplies, and that a complaint was made, on this score, to the bookkeeper, who declined to interfere, saying that the buying arrangements had been left by Garavelli in Pastori's hands.

Pastori's funeral was held this afternoon from an undertaker's establishment at 1921 Cooper street. He was 37 years old, had a wife and two children, and lived at 1914 Herford street. He was on his way across the viaduct, shortly after 3 a. m., when he was attacked by the men who murdered him.

115 AUTO HEADLIGHT ARRESTS

Police Campaign Is Being Carried on Nightly.

Drivers of 115 motor vehicles were arrested by policemen stationed at Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue and at Leffingwell avenue and Washington boulevard between 7 and 11 p. m. yesterday in the campaign begun by Capt. Gerk of the Traffic Bureau against glaring headlights. A week ago, in one night, 196 arrests were made. Nightly arrests averaging about 50 have been made.

The police measure questionable lights against a board. The law provides that a headlight must be strong enough to reveal objects 150 feet ahead of the machine, but that the beam must not show above 42 inches from the ground 75 feet from the machine.

LEGACY FOR GERMAN CITY

American Woman's Bequest Would Pay Municipal Debt.

By the Associated Press. ALTENBURG, Germany, Sept. 13.—By inheritance of $10,000 from the estate of Mrs. Emily Marx, who died some years ago in San Francisco, this city of 45,000 inhabitants is prepared to pay off all its indebtedness if the municipal authorities decide to do so.

Mrs. Marx was born in Altenburg, once the home of the Duke of Saxony-Altenburg. As a girl she went to the United States where her family acquired wealth. She died in 1912, leaving $50,000 to the municipality of Altenburg, but the will was contested. Only recently a settlement was reached whereby the city received $10,000.

"BAD EYES MAKE BAD BOYS"

Director of Eyesight Conservation Council Speaks.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Sept. 13.—"Bad eyes make bad boys," said Guy A. Henry of New York, general director of the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, before the national conference of juvenile agencies today.

He cited the records of Sing Sing prison as lending to show that eye conditions were a possible incentive to crime. One-fourth of America's 24,000,000 school children were handicapped by poor eyesight, he said.

Body of W. F. Warner Jr. Due Friday

The body of Wilbur Fisk Warner Jr., who died suddenly in Paris, France, from acute gastritis, Sept. 7, is expected to arrive in St. Louis at 5 p. m. today, and arrangements have been made to hold funeral services tomorrow afternoon at the residence, 7015 Lindell boulevard. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery at Kirkwood. Warner, who was in the wool and fur business, was 45 years old. His widow, Mrs. Dorothy Turner Warner, and two children, Josephine and Nancy Lee Warner, survive.

$3000 Worth of Radium Lost.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 13.—Radium declared to be worth $3000 was lost here Tuesday evening when a bandage taken from a patient in the office of Dr. H. P. Beirne was thrown away.

THE GREAT DANGER OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

Thousands of men and women have high blood pressure and do not realize it. Dizziness, headaches, sleeplessness, nervousness are some of the tell-tale signs. It is usually caused by some functional derangement of the vital organs such as the liver or kidneys or a habitual clogging of the intestines. When this happens, as it usually does, in middle life, Nature calls for help and the heart tries to answer by doing double work by pumping more blood to the attacked part of the body.

This creates a terrific pressure and often results in apoplexy, of which we read so often.

A simple, safe remedy for high blood pressure and the conditions that cause it, is now offered in scientific Bialin. Bialin will relieve your high blood pressure by acting quickly and effectively at the seat of the trouble. It will stimulate your liver and cleanse the system of the impurities that interfere with the regular functioning of the vital organs.

Bialin will make you feel better in a few days. It is put up in convenient tablet form and can be had at all good druggists such as Enderle Drug Co., Wolff-Wilkes Drug Co., Judge & Dolph, Johnson Bros.

Old folks find this safe sure system regulator—SCHOENFELD—TEA—25¢ at drug stores.

WHOLE COMMUNITY WIPED OUT BY FIRE

Town of Trinity, With 30 or 40 Houses, Swept by Flames in California Forest.

By the Associated Press. SANTA ROSA, Cal., Sept. 13.—The town of Trinity, a community of between 30 and 40 houses, was wiped out and a strip of from two to five miles wide between the towns of Kenwood and Riverano laid waste by a forest and brush fire during the past two days, according to advices received here from the fire zone early today.

By the Associated Press. BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 13.—The first step in the reconstruction of the Oranmont and Euclid avenue district of North Berkeley, razed Monday in the most disastrous fire in the city's history, will be taken today, when workers will attack the flame-charred ruins with dynamite and wrecking tools.

The fire raged over 25 blocks or more. Hundreds of chimneys, all that remain standing in the charred area, will be blasted down.

Estimate of Property Loss. The real and personal property loss in the blaze was estimated at $10,000,000 late yesterday by C. C. Enslie, president of the Berkeley Board of Fire Underwriters. Not more than $4,000,000 was covered by insurance, he said.

The 2500 homeless victims of the fire found shelter with friends or in homes thrown open to them immediately after the conflagration. Among the number were 1200 students of the University of California and 200 families of faculty members. It is estimated that between 50 and 100 persons were injured, although none seriously.

The fire, of undetermined origin, started in Contra Costa County early Monday and swept over the hills north of Berkeley into the populous and prosperous residential district Monday afternoon.

Thousands of Men Trying to Extinguish Flames in Sonoma Valley. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—Central California continued yesterday to be fringed by forest and brush fires, a number of which were beyond control. Two towns were destroyed and others were threatened by the flames. The summer playground of San Francisco, the Russian River district, was the center of the fire area, and Boyes Springs was burned. Every building, including the hotel and approximately 50 cottages, were destroyed. Thousands of men are trying to extinguish the flames in the Sonoma Valley.

The Federal Forest Service reported the fire in the California national forest in Lake County had been controlled, after burning over 15,000 acres. Two men are thought to have lost their lives and $100,000 in property of the Sugar Pine Lumber Co. has been destroyed in Madera County by a fire. Seven hundred men are on the fire line.

SAYS DESTROYERS IGNORED RADIO COMPASS SIGNALS

Lieutenant Testifies That U. S. Squadron Which Was Wrecked Thought Direction They Got Was Wrong.

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 19.—Radio compass signals from Point Arguello showing them to be still north of the point appeared so unimportant to navigators aboard destroyer squadron No. 11 on the night of Sept. 8 that they finally plotted their course on the exact reverse of these directions, and as a result crashed into the rocks well north of Point Arguello, Lieut. Laurence F. Biddgett, navigation officer on board the United States steamship Delphy, told a naval court of inquiry today.

Naval officers conducting the inquiry into the disaster in which seven destroyers were wrecked and 23 lives lost, bent eagerly above a chart of the waters in the vicinity of Santa Barbara channel while Lieutenant Biddgett with plotting instruments explained where the navigators of the squadron thought they were when the apparently inaccurate direction signals from Arguello were received.

"They kept giving our position north and to the west of Point Arguello," he explained, "and when we could not make this check with our figures we finally took the reciprocal of their bearings, which would show us already in Santa Barbara channel."

When shown a published statement today, asserting that he had accepted responsibility for the change of course which resulted in the destruction of the destroyer squadron off Point Honda, Capt. Watson, commander in chief of the squadron, vigorously denied the report.

Radio men and communications officers of the destroyer squadron have furnished most of the significant testimony thus far presented to the court. From radio then yesterday came stories of fragmentary messages they sent or received during the hours just preceding the wreck, a story of repeated radio signals indicating the squadron's position just north of Point Arguello, a considerable distance above the point where it would have been safe to swing eastward into Santa Barbara channels.

Doubt as to Signals.

Two minutes after the last of such signals were received, witnesses testified, Lieutenant-Commander Donald T. Hunter, Captain of the squadron flagship Delphy, ordered a change of course to the east which hurled seven vessels headon into the rocks of Point Honda.

Just how the fatal order came to be issued, and who was responsible for the apparent misunderstanding of the radio signals, remains one of the questions to be answered.

The testimony of radio men on the Delphy, that they had been having trouble with their wireless for several hours before the crash; that the air was crowded with messages interfering with their attempts to obtain radio compass bearings from Point Arguello indicating the squadron position, and that they sometimes waited as long as 10 minutes for such direction signals, indicated some of the possible avenues of explanation which further testimony might take.

Doubt as to the accuracy of radio compass signals from Point Arguello developed significance as the hearing wore on, the most illuminating fact brought out being that a navigator south of Point Arguello, entering Santa Barbara channel, probably would receive compass bearings exactly the reverse from those he might expect while approaching the point from the south.

Signals Discarded.

The Court of Inquiry expressed itself through Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt, presiding, as desirous of learning how and why Point Arguello signals, which repeatedly indicated that the destroyers were still north of the point, were questioned several times and finally discarded in favor of what was termed the "reciprocal bearing," or one showing the squadron already south of the point.

of the whistle, signaling the turn, and heard the whistle signal repeated down the line of destroyers as they swung in a 90-degree arc toward the rocks off Honda.

Five minutes later, he said, the Delphy struck; the yardarm blinkers flashed their warning to destroyers astern, the siren shrieked, ship after ship piled on the rocks, and the night of horror began.

Approximately seven minutes before this, and two minutes before the course was changed to the eastward, a radio compass bearing had been received from Point Arguello, showing them still to the north of the point, another witness testified.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Fred Rauch, payroll messenger for the First National Bank of Brooklyn and former policeman, was shot in the jaw yesterday by three bandits, who held him up in the downtown section of Brooklyn and escaped with $7600 in cash. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

FORMER KAISER PLANS HIGHER BARRICADE AROUND RESIDENCE

Barrier Will Prevent Anyone From Getting Even Fleeting Glimpse of Him at Doorn.

Correspondence of the Associated Press. DOORN, Aug. 27.—Instead of time softening the determination of the former German Emperor to seek seclusion, he is about to retire even more completely from the gaze of the sightseer, for he has ordered the erection of a barricade to prevent his residence from being overlooked from the high road. The framework for the new screen, which is eight feet high, will prevent anyone from getting even a fleeting glimpse of him as he walks in his garden.

The recent publicity given to a bonfire celebration in the grounds of Doorn House is said to have been the motive for the greater privacy.

AUTO THIEVES FOUGHT OFF

Kansas City Grocer Seriously Wounded in Exchange of Shots.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 19.—John T. Thoes, a grocer, was shot and seriously wounded late last night, when he and a son, John M. Thoes, fought off two robbers. A dozen or more shots were fired. When the elder Thoes was shot the son picked up his revolver and pursued the robbers, who escaped.

Thoes, his son, their wives and his daughter, Miss Ada Thoes, were in an automobile when they were ordered out by the robbers, who said they wanted the car.

Objections to St. Germain Convention for Control of Traffic in Arms Pointed Out.

DOES NOT PROVIDE

Congressman Porter Explains
America's Attitude Toward Eradication of the Traffic in Opium.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 12.—The Council of the League has published a communication from the United States Government in which that Government says it is unable to ratify the convention of St. Germain for control of the traffic in arms and munitions. The document, which was conveyed to the council by Joseph C. Grew, the American Minister, gives several reasons.

In brief, they are that the convention does not provide for a general limitation of arms but for the creation of a general system of control which would not prevent the signatory Powers from meeting their own requirements or from supplying each other with arms.

Further Objections.

The United States also makes objection to the provision whereby the contracting parties would not sell arms to states not parties to the convention, pointing out that by such provision a state would be required to prevent shipment of military supplies to such Latin-American countries as had not signed or had not adhered to the convention, however desirable it might be to prevent such shipments, merely because they were not signatory Powers and might not desire to adhere.

It is declared also that acceptance of the covenant would call for the enactment of legislation to make it operative and particularly for the imposition of penalties applicable to private arms producing concerns. The United States Government does not consider itself in a position to undertake such legislation. Finally the provision of the convention relating to the league is declared to be so intertwined with the whole convention as to make it impossible for the United States to ratify it.

Reply Goes to Assembly.
In view of the fact that the United States is not a member of the league, the reply will be transmitted to the assembly, which will consider the question.

Admission of Ethiopia (Abyssinia) into the League of Nations was recommended today by the subcommittee charged with consideration of the subject, on the proviso that the Ethiopian Government make known its intention to suppress slavery within its territory.

The committee on disarmament adopted the pact of mutual assistance whereby the signatories may conclude agreements, complementary to the main treaty, provided these agreements are intended solely for mutual defense and provided the signatories determine in advance the assistance they shall give each other in the event of any act of aggression which they would deem possible.

Washington was suggested, at today's league discussion of the opium problem, as the best place to hold the proposed conference in the fight to be waged against opium and narcotic drugs. The trend of the debate, however, was that two conferences should take place. The first of these conferences would comprise representatives of countries having Far Eastern possessions and its object would be to suppress opium smoking. The states concerned include England, France, Portugal, Japan, Holland and India. The second conference would discuss the limitation of the use of manufactured drugs like morphine and cocaine.

Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the American House of Representatives, and Senator Salandra, head of the Italian delegation, all unconsciously were in rivalry yesterday respecting which would hold the center of the stage at Geneva.

Porter's appearance as the official representative of the Washington Government on the opium question challenged general attention as indicating anew that the United States was actively participating in the humanitarian efforts of the League of Nations. But when Senator Salandra in the next room began before the council a defense of Italy's attitude in the conflict with Greece and announced that Italy was not about to discuss the question of competency there was a general movement of the public from Porter to Salandra.

COOLIDGE GROUPING FOR PLAN TO IMPRESS FARMER WITH HIS SOLICITUDE FOR HIS WELFARE

President Urged to Bring Out Some Constructive Counter-Scheme to Combat Radical Proposals Coming Out of the Northwest.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Coolidge administration before it is grouping about for some method by which it can impress the farmer with its solicitude for his welfare. As the last President discovered from talks with farmers in the Western states, and also from the Minnesota election returns, the passage of the rural credits legislation by the last Congress did not allay the rampant discontent in the agricultural sections. When a farmer is losing money on his crops, it is idle to tell him that he ought to be contented because the Government has just put through a scientific piece of legislation in his behalf.

Urged to Make Offensive.
Mr. Coolidge has been urged by some of his advisers to make an offensive defense against the price-fixing and other Government proposals that have come out of the radical Northwest. He has been told, in other words, that his best play is to bring out some constructive counter-scheme of his own with which to combat the radical programs of the Brookharts and Magnus Johnstons.

The views of those who want Mr. Coolidge to take the bull (so to speak) by the horns were laid before him at yesterday's Cabinet meeting. A subsequent statement to newspaper men at the White House indicated that the case for positive action had been persuasively urged. It was announced, for the President, that the administration was thinking of calling a series of "regional conferences" to deal with the agricultural problems peculiar to various sections.

Word was also passed out that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace was making a study of the wheat situation and probably would present his report to the President Thursday or Friday of this week. The administration, it was said, is anxious to do all it can to relieve agrarian distress.

Play Not Disclosed.
Just what the administration purports to do has not been disclosed. It is doubtful whether Mr. Coolidge has progressed further in his deliberations than the decision to do something, if a practicable scheme can be hit upon. There's the rub. To find something practicable. Both Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Hoover are now cudgeling their brains for a plan.

One thought which has been given in other countries, including the United States, had taken measures similar in nature on matters less grave than that which caused the occupation of Corfu.

By the time Salandra arrived at the most important points in his argument the opium meeting had adjourned, the chief delegates, headed by Porter, flocked into the council chambers. Salandra's position was that, as the Greco-Italian conflict was settled, there was no occasion to discuss the competency of the league to act, because no specific case existed on which to interpret the covenant. However, he added, Italy would not oppose a general interpretation of the covenant by authorized persons—presumably alluding to the Permanent Court of International Justice.

In the course of his address Porter alluded to the presence of the league and expressed his personal opinion that the proposed new international opium conference could best be held under the auspices of the league because it would have behind it the league's prestige and get better results than if convoked by any state acting independently. This statement was warmly applauded. Porter urged that the proposed conference report to the league on or before the assembly meeting of 1923. The conference will comprise representatives of the countries where opium and coca leaves are produced for export, countries where drugs are manufactured therefrom, and Governments in whose territories prepared opium is consumed. Its official Porter, would be to agree on a strategy to prevent abusive use of these substances, their products and derivatives.

U. S. Attitude Explained.
The conference, which the assembly is expected to approve, will carry to a further degree the aims of the Hague convention, which several states have not yet ratified.

Referring to India's reservation of her right to use opium locally, Porter said the American laws classed raw opium as a habit-forming narcotic drug, to be administered under medical supervision. The United States did not wish to question the general legislation with regard to opium, but the United States did not regard as legitimate, except as stipulated in The Hague convention, international traffic in opium for other than medicinal and scientific purposes. He declared that the acceptance and enforcement of the American principle the President to mull over, and which was echoed in the White House statement, is that maybe the wheat growers of the so-called semi-arid belt could be induced to raise something else—sugar beets and flax, for instance.

It has been pointed out to Mr. Coolidge that wheat growing in this section, which includes part of western Texas and western portions of Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas, eastern Colorado and all of Montana is a precarious business owing to insufficient rainfall. This section, so the President has been advised, is able to make a wheat crop only in lucky years. When it does make a crop the market is glutted, to the detriment of all wheat producers and when it doesn't there are likely to be appeals to the Government for aid. Being unable to compete with Canada in wheat growing, the semi-arid belt, it is argued, ought to get out of the business and turn to something else.

Change of Crops Suggested.
The matter was not put in those blunt terms at the White House, but they represent the idea back of the tentative suggestion that some of the wheat farmers of the country might be induced to grow the growing of sugar beets and flax.

According to information given the President the financial distress among farmers is virtually confined to those dependent on wheat. He has been told that despite boll weevil ravages, the cotton producers of the South will average a better return than they got before the war; that corn growers are profiting from remarkably high prices for their product and that hog and cattle prices are holding up well.

It is the plight of the wheat farmer that Mr. Coolidge has in mind when he seeks a remedy for agricultural ills. The wheat grower is faced with the unpleasant fact that as the standard of living goes up people prefer to eat meat and less wheat, thus he suffers from prosperity in the industrial centers while the meat producer gains. What helps one class of farmers may hurt another, hence the belief that more can be accomplished through single crop "regional conferences" to feel out sectional needs than through a general conference.

Another Angle of Problem.
Another angle of the problem is the decline of the foreign market for wheat. The United States will import 200,000,000 fewer bushels of wheat this year than last. Mr. Coolidge probably would be grateful if another Bok would offer an award for a plan to take the farmers' troubles out of politics.

What would ultimately eradicate a great international evil.

"League's Function Is to Promote Agreements," Says Cecil.
(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. of the World, Inc., and the Post-Dispatch.)

GENEVA, Sept. 19.—Whatever the outside world thinks, the Council of the League of Nations, through Lord Robert Cecil as spokesman, considers that the organization acted correctly in the Greco-Italian crisis and that the atmosphere of inaction, restraint and conciliation, if radiated, coupled with the advice tendered by the Ambassadors' conference, contributed largely to the settlement reached. Lord Robert interpreted the league's scope and mission in important passages.

"The function of the league is not to impose a settlement in a dispute," he said, "but to promote agreement between the disputants. We are not a super-state, but a forum for the discussion of international subjects. The course of proceedings, according to the covenant, is: First, diplomatic negotiations; secondly, arbitration before the world court or another tribunal, and finally, if other means fail, comes an inquiry by the council, which even then is restricted to drawing up a report. Prior to this inquiry our business is to seize on any means of settlement and that is what we did in this case when we stood aside while the better situated conference of Ambassadors intervened."

"The league must only intervene as a last resort. This is an essential and fundamental principle of the covenant since we are not here to promote a victory of one side over the other. I venture to think that we have carried out our duty by showing great restraint and moderation throughout."

Lord Robert said points raised during the negotiations will be submitted to the world court.

Democrats Nominate Prall.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Announcing the nomination of the Democratic Party for Congress in the Eleventh District in the triangular Democratic contest in Tuesday's primary election for the congressional seat, made vacant by the death of W. With all but 13 election districts heard from Prall's vote was more than twice the combined total of his opponents.

WARNS PAPERS AGAINST

U. S. Attorney in West Virginia
Says Further Publication
Means Prosecution.

By the Associated Press.
HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 19.—After a conference late yesterday Federal Judge George W. McClintock, United States District Attorney at Elkhart, North Carolina, announced that indictments of newspapers for publishing pictures of the Dempsey-Firpo fight would not be sought at this time. While charging the grand jury yesterday the Judge asked that such an indictment be returned against a Huntington newspaper.

Northcott, however, warned newspapers against further publication of such pictures, declaring "it will be my duty, under the ruling of the presiding Judge of this district, to proceed with prosecutions."

Law Forbids "Public Exhibition" of Fugitive Pictures.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The action of Federal Judge McClintock at Huntington, W. Va., in asking for indictment of a newspaper for publishing pictures of the Dempsey-Firpo fight is a novel application of the law, Department of Justice officials said, and is requesting the grand jury to take cognizance of the matter, the Judge acted entirely on his own initiative.

Although there has been a popular belief that the law applies only to moving picture films of pugilism, and this point was stressed by ministers and others before congressional committees before the law's enactment, officials said it banned all photographic films of pugilistic encounters "moving" or "still," if used for "public exhibition." Unofficial opinion, however, has been that the law was designed to stop exhibition of films in halls and elsewhere and not to penalize newspaper publication, although this point never has been tested in the courts.

How the Law Reads.
Heretofore newspaper publication has not been classed as "public exhibition," but efforts of film owners to ship single photographs across state lines, in compliance with the law, and then to place them together for a crude moving picture exhibition. Inquiries were received by the Department of Justice from the Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Mont., as to whether such a course would violate the law, and an affirmative reply was given by Assistant Attorney General Crim, in charge of criminal prosecutions.

The law says: "That it shall be unlawful for any person to deposit or cause to be deposited in the United States mail for mailing or delivery, or to deposit with any express company, or other common carrier for carriage, or to send or carry from one state or territory of the United States, or from the District of Columbia to any other state or territory of the United States, or to bring or to cause to be brought into the United States from abroad, any film or other pictorial representation, or any single photograph, or any group of photographs, or any other moving picture, or any other photographic representation, or any other pictorial representation, if such film, photograph, or other moving picture, or other photographic representation, or other pictorial representation, is designed to be used, or may be used, for purposes of public exhibition."

Can Show Films in New York.
"That it shall be unlawful for any person to take, or receive from mail or express company, or other common carrier, with intent to sell, distribute, circulate, or exhibit any matter or thing herein forbidden to be deposited for mailing delivery or carriage in interstate commerce."

"That any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall for each offense, upon conviction thereof, be fined not more than $1000, or sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court."

"Still" pictures of the Dempsey-Firpo fight have been published freely in Washington newspapers without objection by Federal authorities, and officials said it was entirely within the law to show either the "still" or "moving" films in New York, the law applying only to their transportation in interstate commerce.

For City and County Consolidation.
Many persons who believe that St. Louis and St. Louis County should be consolidated lack the backbone to work actively for the proposal, Hugh K. Wagner, president of the Greater St. Louis Conference and of the Million Population Club, said last night at a meeting of the Cabanne District Improvement Association. He urged consolidation as a step necessary to sanitation and city planning.

Dr. North Chosen by Hyde.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION
COMING TO ST. LOUIS

Conference Tomorrow to Consider Speeding and Maintaining State Road Work.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 19.—The State Highway Commission tomorrow in St. Louis will consider ways of accelerating construction of the state highway system, means of providing sufficient funds with which to maintain the roads already built, and acceptance of bids for approximately 6,000,000 tons of crushed stone, sand and gravel. It also will meet an advisory committee from the State Senate.

Whether the department should proceed along the lines mapped out by the Legislature at its extra session in 1921, which enacted the $50,000,000 road program law, requiring approximately ten years to complete the system, or should hasten that development, has been under discussion for two years. It was found that the engineering and supervisory organization, required to build at the rate of $5,000,000 a year, with a slight expansion, could handle twice that program or even more.

Maintenance Money Shortage.
The last Legislature tried to do the quality of bonds which could be sold annually, but because of a clerical error in the measure enacted, it is doubtful if it succeeded, the law providing that "not to exceed $10,000,000 par value in the years 1924 and 1925" may be sold. Just what this means only a court will be able to tell, though several attorneys have declared it will permit sale of only $5,000,000 of bonds in each year.

Even should the courts hold that $10,000,000 bonds can be issued and sold next year under this statute, the Highway Commission faces another difficulty through necessity of providing funds for maintaining the roads already built. Automobile traffic, through speed and excessive loading of freight vehicles, causes many kinds of highway to deteriorate rapidly, unless they are carefully maintained. This work next year, properly done, will require $2,500,000 to $4,000,000, it is estimated.

Survey of the funds probably available from the motor vehicle license collections next year has convinced the commission that there will not be enough to pay the $10,000,000 bonds already issued, the $5,000,000 to be issued in December, and another $10,000,000 next year, and at the same time pay for maintenance.

May Require Special Session.
This situation already has been laid before the board of governors of the Automobile Club of Missouri by Chairman Cary of the Highway Commission, who will discuss the same matter tomorrow at luncheon with directors of the Chamber of Commerce. The Automobile Club governors wanted the construction program and maintenance properly provided for.

Whether members of the club will support an advance in motor vehicle license to that end is the object of a referendum now in progress. A special session of the Legislature would be necessary to increase the license fee for next year and to correct the defective statute. Whether it will be called will rest with the Automobile Club, Gov. Hyde and the public.

Members of the Highway Commission have determined, according to Gary, that it is their function to inform the public of the situation and to administer the law as written, leaving it to the Governor, the public and the Legislature to determine the rest.

The Governor said today he had not decided whether to call a special session, and would not do so until he had gone more thoroughly into the situation.

Adjustments will be necessary in bids of the 20 or more firms and individuals desiring to furnish rock, sand and gravel will be considered by the commission. Prices offered in the bids would enable a substantial saving, over those now paid, Chief Engineer Fiepmeyer said today.

During the day a conference will be held with Senators William R. Painter of Carrollton, Nick Cave of Fulton, S. A. Cunningham of Eminence, Larry Brunk of Aurora, A. G. McHenry of Carthage, Peter Anderson and William E. Caulfield of St. Louis, constituting a committee appointed under Senate resolution to advise with the commission on highway matters. Painter said recently this would be a "helping and not a hindering" committee.

FOR ADVERTISING "TRUTH WEEK"
National Obscure Recommended to Better Business Bureaus.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 19.—National observance of "truth week" in advertising was recommended here yesterday at the annual convention of Better Business Bureaus under the auspices of the Associated Advertisers Clubs of the World. The week would be observed in connection with the celebration of Washington's birthday.

This is one of a series of intimate stories concerning President Coolidge, as related by his townsfolk in Northampton, Mass., where Coolidge still remains just "Cal."

Copyright, 1923.
CAL COOLIDGE is probably the country's champion listener. He has a positive talent for it. It is the complement of his greatest handicap—his inability to talk fluently. It is a question whether if his talent and his handicap had been reversed he could have achieved the same success. Cal fairly listened his way into all the offices that Northampton could give him.

Cal has always been known as a "door to door" candidate. Where another man would have spent his time lining up his friends, Cal listened to his enemies. He would walk day after day out into the country districts or down into the poor section of the homes of the good Democratic voters. The overworked housewives, with their men away at work, would have no one to talk to. Cal would drop in for half an hour, sit by the chimney corner, swing his leg, say nothing, and listen his way into the women's hearts. Before very long the whole voting strength of the family would be going to Cal, although he was a Republican.

It is a fact that in Northampton Cal has just as many friends—voting friends, too—among the Democrats as among the Republicans. Most of them he won through their women folk. The others he won through the "get together" in the shop of James Lucey, the old Irish shoemaker of Gothic street. Lucey was by birth a Democrat. Through admiration for James G. Blaine he started voting the Republican ticket. "Since then I've been a turncoat," he says, his eyes wrinkled with laughter. "The only other turncoat in town is Grogan. But turncoat or not, I'm still Irish and a good Catholic."

On the strength of these two qualities and an expensive, glowing disposition, Lucey could command the presence of his good friends, the Democrats, at his shop on almost any evening. There'd be Republicans there, too. The shades of the dusty old shop in the basement would be pulled. The "boys" would smoke and drink coffee passed by Mr. Lucey's daughter, Margaret, and talk politics.

But the real purpose of these meetings was that the "boys" should get to know Cal Coolidge. Cal would sit in the corner, silent here too, and listening. But Lucey knew from an experience of years with the gawky, silent young man that back of the slow tongue and the cold exterior rested a fine brain and a heart. From those meetings Cal took such new friends as Phil Gleason, the blacksmith and Democratic ward boss, who has voted for Cal for every office for 10 years. And he also took a shrewd knowledge of the way elections are won in the wards—knowledge that even a President can know to advantage.

PREPARES REPEAL BILL
IN APPROACH DISPUTE

Udell to Offer Measure to Rescind Board's Action in Overriding Veto.

A repeal bill to rescind the action taken by the Board of Aldermen last Friday, when the board overrode the Mayor's veto of a bill directing condemnation of land in East St. Louis for the site of the proposed northeast railroad approach to the Free Bridge, is being prepared by Alderman Udell of the Twenty-third Ward. He plans to introduce this bill Friday.

Udell stated that his object in preparing the repeal bill was to provide an opportunity for public hearings on the cost of the approach, for which $1,500,000 was provided in the $7,372,500 bond issue, and whether the approach will serve the purposes claimed for it. Engineers have estimated the cost at approximately $5,000,000 and the city Legal Department gave an opinion the railroad could not be compelled to use it, when built.

As has been related, a majority of the board agreed, in caucus on Sept. 13, to defer action on the Mayor's veto until Nov. 2, to permit further investigation of the merits of the project. When the bill was called up at a meeting the next day, it was passed over the veto, 23 to 4.

"Bill in Effect in 30 Days."
Udell asked the City Counselor for an opinion whether the repeal bill could legally be introduced before the condemnation measure becomes an ordinance and was in effect. Under charter provisions a bill passed over the Mayor's veto becomes effective 30 days later, in this case Oct. 14. The City Counselor stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter today. He said he did not know whether it could be passed, but the bill would enable reopening of the discussion. He expressed an opinion that the board would change its view and the Aldermen considered all of the points raised against the project.

The Citizens' Supervisory Committee on Expenditure of the Bond Issue, which urged the Mayor to veto the condemnation bill because it was passed without first being referred to the committee, will resume its meetings Sept. 27.

Committee Discusses Action.
Several members of the committee met at luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Jefferson and discussed the action of the board, but took no formal action. A statement on the position of the committee probably will be issued later, it was said.

AGE AN ISSUE IN NEXT CAMPAIGN
FOR PRESIDENCY

Democrats in Particular Talking About Man Most Suitable to Make Race if Coolidge Is Nominated.

PRESIDENT NOW
IS JUST PAST 51

In List of 29 Presidents All but Four Were 57 or Younger When They Were Inaugurated.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Washington Correspondent
of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Age may be literally a value issue in the next presidential campaign. Democrats of prominence are beginning to talk among themselves about the age of the men most suitable to make the race against President Calvin Coolidge if the latter is the Republican nominee.

Mr. Coolidge is now just past 51 and will be 52 years and a half on March 4, 1925, when the next presidential term begins. Many people who argue that the burdens of the presidency are almost superhuman and are clamoring that the executive be relieved have lost sight of the fact that few men enter the presidency of a big business at the age of 60 or more.

Looking over the list of 29 Presidents of the United States preceding Mr. Coolidge it will be found that all but four were 57 or younger when inaugurated and that the majority were nearer 50 than 57. Of the four Presidents who entered the White House above the age of 57, William Henry Harrison, age 68, served only a month of his term and died; Zachary Taylor, age 64, died in office after a year of his term. James Buchanan was 65 upon inauguration and John Adams was 61 years.

Using 57 as the upper limit of the presidential age at inauguration—though to be sure the two-term Presidents have been much younger than that—the men who are now being talked of on both the Republican and Democratic tickets for the presidency would be narrowed down to a few. Here are the ages of the various statesmen mentioned for the presidency as they would be on March 4, 1925, when the next presidential term begins:

La Follette, 69 years 8 months.
Pinchot, 59 years 6 months.
Senator Ralston, 68 years 3 months.
John W. Davis, 51 years 10 months.
A. Smith, 52 years 2 months.
James M. Cox, 54 years 11 months.
W. G. McAdoo, 62 years 1 month.
W. J. Bryn, 65 years 1 month.
Oscar Underwood, 62 years 10 months.
Carter Glass, 67 years 1 month.
Hiram Johnson, 58 years 5 months.

Former Senator Kenyon of Iowa, 58 years 1 month.
Henry Ford, 61 years 5 months.
Of the foregoing number only two men are younger than President Coolidge and they are both Democrats. Al Smith of New York and John W. Davis of West Virginia, the latter of whom is the youngest of all the men mentioned for the presidency, if 57 were the age limit for the inauguration of a president only former Senator Kenyon of Iowa, Al Smith and Calvin Coolidge would come under that mark.

Not Generally Realized.
Most people do not realize that Henry Ford, for instance, is past 60 or that the veteran Senator from Wisconsin, Robert M. La Follette, has passed 68 and will be nearly 70 on March 4, 1925. Senator Ralston, junior Senator from Indiana, would be over 68 at the beginning of the next term.

The vigor of Theodore Roosevelt in the presidency has always been attributed by many of his friends to the fact that he was 42, the youngest man to enter the White House in American history. At the end of his seven years he was only 49 which is below the age of all the candidates now being mentioned.

The burdens of the presidency are admittedly greater today than they were in the past. There is no doubt that both Warren Harding and Woodrow Wilson had the best of medical attention. The former was 55 years old when inaugurated and served less than three years. The latter was 56 years old and broke down at 63.

While many a man is stronger than his years, the politicians are wondering what the popular effect will be of a comparison of ages if Mr. Coolidge, a relatively young man, is the candidate against a man much older than he will be in March, 1925, namely 59 and a half year.

Wishes Them in Hot Place.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I read with much interest the letter in your "Letters from the People" column, signed Lorenz Maycher, and I, like he, have been reading the complaints of disabled veterans of the World War in your column.

If Lorenz Maycher has received a square deal from the officers of the United States Veterans' Bureau in the Ninth District, he is one of the few. I wonder if he knows of the number of disabled veterans who have been declared rehabilitated by these same officers of the Veterans' Bureau, when they were not physically able to work at the positions they were forced into by these same so-called big-hearted officials of the Veterans' Bureau. The United States Veterans' Bureau, after declaring a man rehabilitated, are supposed to keep in touch with the man for four months to see if the occupation into which he has been rehabilitated is satisfactory, also to see that it is not causing an aggravation of his disability for which he was given training to help him overcome. But this follow-up system, as they call it, is never lived up to, and once they get a man off of the Government payroll they forget all about him. I know this to be a fact because that is the treatment I received from the Ninth District of the United States Veterans' Bureau. They declared me rehabilitated on a job that, when I was given training, the doctors of the Veterans' Bureau said I could not work at, on account of my disability, but I am forced to continue on the job on account of being married. I have tried to call these conditions to the attention of the men who were responsible for me being in the position I now am, but they refused point blank to see me. So my answer to Lorenz Maycher's boast for these officials is this: "I wish they were all in hell."

McMaster and the Standard.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
If anyone thinks that Gov. McMaster of South Dakota set the price of 16 cents on gasoline in the territory controlled by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, they have another thing coming. The Standard always has established the price and always will, and has set the price charged at present as best suited to its interests.

The Governor's statement that "if former prices were maintained, the independents were just as responsible for that condition as was Standard Oil" is not true. Where is the independent that would dare to undersell the Standard, unless it contemplated going out of business?

The Governor states that "Standard Oil, by deed and act, is working in full co-operation with him." The entire population of this valley will agree with him on that statement.

Amendment by Popular Vote.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
CONSTITUTIONS are written for the purpose of defining the powers and duties of organized government and setting limits for the use of its powers. But a queer notion has got abroad in the land that constitutions are a kind of cowering the people into submission to tyranny. Since all political power belongs to the people and to prevent the march of empire, I propose that article V of the Federal Constitution be so amended that the Constitution of the United States cannot be amended except by popular election, each State having the same number of votes as they have in the electoral college. This vote should, however, be determined by the people at a special election.

Street-Car Conductor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
MR. "M. J. C." complains about the careless conductor. He is mistaken about the conductor being careless—that was done deliberately. When M. J. C. and thousands of other trade unionists and good citizens supported these same street railway employees to obtain trade union conditions and secure a wage increase, these same employees had nothing to give us in return for our support but good service and courteous treatment. But the treatment that M. J. C. received is the same as hundreds of others receive daily.

I don't believe Mr. Perkins or any other railway official approves of the conduct of this conductor. It is fair to assume that the conductor wears a union button, and if a committee was to examine this conductor I don't believe they would find the required six union labels on him.

The members of the street carmen's union should remember that the public is entitled to more consideration than any of them give the public.

J. W. WOODWARD.

SENATOR MCCORMICK'S WARNING.

Senator McCormick, addressing the Sons of the Revolution at Danville, Ill., warned them that the liberties of our people are seriously imperiled. The Government under which we live, he said, had grown more complex than that of any other people. He seems not to have placed the responsibility definitely for the violation of our rights, everywhere visible, but seemed to attribute much of it to public lethargy.

The fact, of course, is that Government itself is and always has been the greatest offender. Who built up the great, cumbersome machine now impersonating Government at Washington? The people didn't do it. It is the work of our so-called statesmen. Who is responsible for that recent vicious assault upon our ancient liberties which commands what and what not to drink, which arrogates the presumption of innocence, abolishes trial by jury and submits us to distant courts, in the name of prohibition? The people had nothing to do with it. It was enacted by about 3600 so-called statesmen in our Legislatures. Who has authorized the army of Federal inspectors, secret agents and inquisitors now swarming out from Washington and consuming the substance of industry? Senator McCormick knows very well.

There was a time in this country when custom, drawing its validity from public opinion, made law. It required no army of soldiers or policemen to enforce it. That was in the early days when we had vindicated in war our natural rights as they were founded in the unwritten English common law. This law, the only true law, arose entirely apart from any political authority and legislation was viewed as valid only as it followed and reduced custom to writing. That is the glory of the Anglo-Saxon law as contrasted with the Roman idea of law, which is at all times a command from a sovereign to a subject. Yet even in Rome during the republic custom was viewed as the only true law. It was not until the empire was inaugurated under Augustus that law became in fact the command of a sovereign.

It is a curious circumstance of history that although Rome had been under imperial and despotic rule for nearly a century and a half, the commentator Julian, writing under Hadrian, still viewed law as custom or as founded in common consent. Thus he says:

What difference does it make whether the people declares its will by voting or by its practice and acts, seeing that the laws themselves bind us only because they have been approved by the people?

This is essentially an Anglo-Saxon principle and through it our English ancestors not only made law by custom or custom, but repealed law by desuetude, that is, by ceasing to observe it. Such a principle is possible, however, only with a free people. It would be utterly intolerable in an imperial system, where all law is the command of a superior. Thus Julian was unaware of the fact that imperial rule had destroyed the republic, as we ourselves are unconscious of a far-reaching change in our system.

The solemn cry that we hear on every hand from Government functionaries about "disrespect for law" is never an indictment of a free people; that is their normal method of repealing laws they do not want. It is an entirely different matter, however, when the subjects of a state fail to obey the commands of their rulers.

The Pullman Co.'s dividends last year were $11,000,000. The Pullman family ought to feel as grateful to the man who invented sleep as did Sancho Panza.

"US AND OUR BRAINS."

In a message to Gov. Pinchot, President Coolidge could not "command too highly" the "distinct public service" rendered in the settlement of the anthracite coal strike. Not so the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association, which has addressed the United States Coal Commission with a statement recording its opposition to the "Pinchot compromise," by which the recent crisis was overcome.

"Arbitration," it says, "has been relegated to the scrap heap, and arrogant organized labor has gained the victory." More than that, the "brains" of the coal dealers are not being appreciated. The statement darkly warns the Government that if it indulges in price fixing the brains of the organization as well as its capital will not be available to public service and "the State will have to undertake to supply such service where the inducement is not attractive to private capital and brains."

"Brains" are a priceless possession and should be jealously guarded by those fortunate enough to command them. It is a fact of common observation, however, that persons not so blessed have frequently harbored extravagant illusions as to the fact. The Pinchot settlement not only removes the menace of a scarcity, which is the profiteer's fattest opportunity, but it invokes all the powers and devices of government to thwart profiteering as a consequence of the terms of settlement. Such a settlement may be ruefully regarded by the coal dealers as a defeat of brains, but we are inclined to the view that it was a defeat of cupidity.

Stroesbeck, Germany, boasts that every soul of its 1500 inhabitants is a player of chess—in other words it is a village of chess nuts.

BORAH'S IMPOSSIBLE COURT.

Senator Borah, returning to Washington, announced with a flourish that he stands ready to vote for our participation in an international court of justice; but the only kind of court he stands ready to vote for is the kind defined by the late President Harding in his St. Louis speech.

Mr. Harding's St. Louis speech was regarded as a blunder by nearly every public man and nearly every newspaper that went on record with regard to it. It defined a court plan which was impossible of realization and which certainly would have been rejected by European nations and probably by the United States Senate.

Senator Borah, therefore, stands where he stood before, in favor of an international court, but the kind of court that nobody else wants.

We do not see much hope for American participation in an international court of justice under the present administration, because it has no champion in the administration. President Coolidge, while saying that he favored our participation in the court, disavowed leadership in putting it through. It is up to the Senate, with no leader standing for it. Unless popular pressure becomes irresistible, the international court plan will have to await more favorable conditions in Washington.

A man 45 years old arrested for bigamy at Kansas City says he may have married a hundred women. That's a good many knots a year.

RECOGNITION OF THE PEDESTRIAN.

At last the pedestrian is to come within the vision of the traffic police. The Captain of the squad has apprised his men that there is such a thing. It is high time this part of the population were given recognition. Heretofore the main concern of the traffic officer has been to warn automobiles going in diverse directions from attempting to occupy the same patch of pavement at the same instant. Consequently the law of the foot crossings has been the law of might.

Even the modest right of crossing the street simultaneously with the traffic going his way has been denied the pedestrian. Cars with drivers hoping to shave the ends off a second have invaded the crossings. More baffling to the downtown pedestrian has been the corner-turning pest. As the traffic changes, allowing the pedestrian to start across, he is cut off by a car rounding the corner, and by the time this and one or two more cars have turned, the traffic may have changed again, with the result that the pedestrian finds himself between two roaring streams of traffic, completely ignored by the police.

If the traffic force would wait for pedestrians to complete the crossing before signaling change of traffic and would keep back the crossing hog while the cross traffic is passing, the pedestrian could get across without sacrifice of life or dignity. It is a simple service that the police have to perform, but it means directing and protecting all the traffic instead of just half.

THE STRANGE STORY OF A TREE.

I WAS once a human being, but now I am a tree. And this is how so wonderful a change came over me— I always led a life of pleasure, quite "couleur de rose." And was so easy-minded, others led me by the nose. I am ashamed to say it, but I had so little will I formed no fixed opinions, upon subjects good or ill. Well, after years of drifting with custom, wind and tide. While wandering in the forest, from heart disease I died. A lightning overtook me, my vision grew quite dark. I felt my vital power dwindle to a tiny spark; And out from that poor form, which lay so calm and pale My soul evaporated; for my will could not prevail To keep myself together, and the dissolution check And become a spirit man, like those which, on the deck Of his strange vessel Coleridge's mariner once saw. I felt myself all going, with a kind of languid awe. The particles flew upwards, to stop I knew not how. Like dew, when in the morning the sunshine warms the air. But, suddenly I knew that a part of me was bound In a tiny space in darkness near the surface of the ground. I afterwards discovered 'twas an acorn's vital force. Had captured what was left of me. It lay beneath my corpse. It seems a trifle curious that such a little thing should catch my soul's last essence, when it was taking wing. Overcome with dissipation, I was taken in the act. And for a timely warning I now relate the fact: 'Twas all because my will so weak was aye by others led. When I had a lazy body, and an easy-going head. There, in that narrow prison, blind and powerless I lay. Till it seemed I was expanding, growing upward day by day. I could not see, but still retained my feeling and my smell. But soon I thought, had these been lost, it would have been as well: For, horror to relate, yet for truth's sake I must do it. My corpse lay right above us and the little tree grew thro' it. Oh, who can tell the torture my two senses suffered then. I pray I never may have such experience again: And still, though now a giant oak, I shudder in the ground. At anything which touches me where that so clasped me round. But those fearful days are over, and when now With the breath of flowers laden, wanders softly thro' the trees, I feel myself expanding, in the sunshine warm and bright. And I'm thankful to the acorn, that with its little might Kept all of me remaining from stern oblivion's gloom. When annihilation threatened to be my final doom.

The modern version: Through the sycamores the fiery cross is gleaming on the banks of the Wabash far away.

MISSOURI TRAVELOGUE.

A VILLAGE in Missouri noted for its razor-back hogs, hound dogs, and tie hickers, took a spur coming from the main line of a railroad. Two trains a day visit the town. The last one arrives about eight thirty in the evening. The writer desiring to catch the last train, had gone to the station before dark for the simple reason there are no lights in the town and it is quite possible to get lost or fall down a hill if one is a stranger. I had been in the station but a few minutes when one of the natives with wife, five children, a hound dog, and the balance of their worldly possessions wrapped in a bed blanket arrived. Since it was a full hour until train time they parked themselves around on the benches in the station. It was not long until they were all asleep. The hound crawled under a bench.

When the train pulled out, the hound was in the main pure than was required for the tickets, yet they were moving, hunting for the end of the rainbow, searching in their crude and unlighted way for the bag of gold. The train shrieked with a weird falsetto blast of the whistle. The father awakened, the rest of them slept on. He started by awakening his wife. She in turn awakened the children. By the time she could get the last one awake, the first would be asleep again.

The conductor bawled, "All Aboard." Two short blasts of the whistle indicated the train was ready to go. The father ran out and frantically besought the conductor to wait until he could get his family awake. The conductor was a good-hearted man, he went into the depot and helped carry the children aboard the train. Once more the engine gave the two short blasts of the whistle, the women ran into the vestibule screaming, "John, where is Woodrow?" I wondered who Woodrow was. The woman ran into the depot followed by the conductor and her husband. Woodrow was still under the bench asleep. A few kicks more or less meant nothing in Woodrow's life. He slept right on. Finally they stood him on his feet, but the minute they turned him loose he would fall back on the floor in his stupor. After repeating this a few times, it was plain to see he was not to be denied his beauty sleep. The conductor finally losing his patience, grabbed Woodrow by his long brown ears and carried him to the baggage car.

As the train pulled out, howls from the baggage car indicated some one's houn' was being hiked around. Nevertheless they were moving, and it was the case of the conventional habits of their lives, and they were happy.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

JAPAN'S RECOVERY.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

REPORTS from Tokio indicate that Japan now winning a victory compared with what that of the Yeh River, Port Arthur, the Japanese Sea or Tientsin is insignificant. This victory is scored by the spiritual power stored up in centuries in the Japanese character. Disciplined hearts, trained minds, fortitude in the presence of almost overwhelming difficulties, unswerving resourcefulness in meeting unlooked for emergencies, promptitude, vigor, dispatch and, more than all else, the spirit of sacrifice illustrated for centuries in the Empire's defense by the Japanese subjects—these qualities punctuate reports coming from Nippon. If the disaster there is really characterized "the tragedy of the century," the heroism already manifest there may give to the epic of the ages—an epic more splendid than that which Homer has woven before the walls of Troy, equalling that of Thermopylae, Marathon, Salamis, Marston Moor, Waterloo, Saratoga, Gettysburg or the Argonne. A people that can survive the ordeal that wreathes Japan's spirit surely is invincible. The great organized communities are worthy of the great of what is going on in Japan. The American would, indeed, be poor in spirit who could fail to exclaim, with all the cry's significance: "Long live Japan!"

ST. LOUIS AS AVIATION CENTER.

From the Dallas Journal.

THE nation's big cities of today get ahead in the first place because their citizens are men possessed of the faculty of jipping into the future and planning accordingly. It seems reasonable that the leadership that has brought them thus far will continue to serve them in the activities of the civic organizations of the future. The city of St. Louis is a city of the future. The slow development of commercial flying, the close of the war was a distinct stimulus to many aviation enthusiasts. But the people overlooked the fact that all commercial developments have their lapses, and that a lapse was inevitable when—for the sake of economy—pursuit planes and bombers were diverted into commercial aircraft. A battleship will never make a good merchant vessel, and the same thing holds good for aircraft. But the commercial plane has arrived and is beginning to see its day of usefulness. The city which looks to its aircraft facilities and which makes itself an aviation center will be ready time by the time the warlock.

EUROPEAN WAR CLOUDS.

From the New Republic.

GREECE is in no position to resist by arms. But the seizure of Corfu is aimed more against Jugoslavia than against Greece, and the Jugoslavs could put up a nasty fight on the Adriatic. Mussolini is obviously counting that Jugoslavia moves, Bulgaria and Hungary move too, on the other side. That would leave Greece-Slovakia and Rumania on the side of Jugoslavia. But Russia could not be expected to remain quiescent; she has scores to settle with Rumania. Poland would have then to settle with the Little Entente. The German would be restrained with difficulty from joining Germany in for war. Liberty would be involved, and thus the whole world would be aflame with war.

GRIM PESSIMISM IN KNOBLOCK'S 'LULLABY'

Florence Reed Starred in Dramatized Version of the Life of French Peasant Girl.

By Leased Wire From the New York Journal of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The new play, which Edward Knoblock has written and in which Miss Florence Reed is starred, is a dramatized version of the life of a French peasant girl who went to the devil. The cause is the usual one—a man. Yet by virtue of the method in which it is flashed upon the stage at the Knickerbocker, together with a performance of extreme versatility and understanding on the part of the star, "The Lullaby" is one of the most remarkable plays to be seen in town.

The most distinct picture which we have carried away from its cinematic chain of scenes is that of a large, red-haired prostitute loitering in the gaudy silks of her street stall on the outskirts of Tunis, a cigarette drooping from her red lips, a raucous, ghastly chuckle in her throat, while before her one of the half dozen men who in other years have cast her aside stand gazing at her portrait, unrecognized and unrecognizable. No, "The Lullaby" is not exactly bedtime story drama. In the beginning we find Madelon a happy, buxom country girl of a happy, and there follows quickly her realization that she must marry in haste. This is impossible, so the girl goes off to Paris, where, as the dramatists say, an overwhelming fate settles down upon her, and for more than a year we see her stumbling steadily downward as one by one her lovers desert her. In the end she is a decrepit, weeping, half insane old woman, a prisoner in an African dungeon, charged with a murder which only she knows she did not commit.

The play seems to be steeped in an atmosphere of grim pessimism from which its principal character never rises, yet the fine interpretation given to the various stages of Madelon's unhappy life makes even the sinister effect of the plot haunting and irresistible. "The Lullaby" does not possess much of what Mr. Knoblock, the screen and stage writer, has been so persistent in demanding of others—the element of dramatic suspense; still it is an almost perfectly written narrative of doomed existence on this earth. We imagine it will run at the Knickerbocker long enough for many persons to see it and discuss it. It has the stuff that pulls.

"ANOTHER STACK OF WHEATS" FOR HUNGRY PRINCE OF WALES

Filling Silos on Canadian Ranch Gives Appetite to Heir to British Throne.

By the Associated Press.

HIGH RIVER, Alberta, Sept. 19.—"Another stack of wheat" was the call that went to the kitchen of the Prince of Wales' ranch house five minutes after he sat down to breakfast yesterday. Lord Renfrew was preparing for a hard day's work in the field.

Lord Renfrew was the first man up at the ranch, and routed all the other "hands" out of bed. After breakfast, at which he surrounded several brook trout as well as "a double deck of flaps," the heir to the crown of Britain went to work at the sunflower silo. Until that job is finished, huge will be no recreation on the ranch.

As soon as he has a little free time, however, he is looking forward to a fishing trip and a hunting expedition.

"But work comes first," he said.

No, "The Lullaby" is not exactly a bedtime story drama. In the beginning we find Madeleine a happy, buxom country girl of Normandy and there follows quickly her realization that she must marry in haste. This is impossible, so the girl goes off to Paris, where, as the dramatist says, an overwhelming fate settles down upon her, and for more than 40 years we see her stumbling steadily downward as one by one her lovers desert her. A method which resulted in numerous "how-to" last season in a number of half-baked "cut-in" scenes of the stage, now has been developed to smooth and effective precision. There is 12 scenes in the play and the action ranges over a period of 12 years. It is all done with a simplicity and a directness of presentation which is a rare thing in the theatre. This is perhaps Miss Reed's best part in a great many seasons. It is a sedately difficult and taxing one. To enact a part that after the first half-hour with it each night she has almost solved a problem or set a beautiful example. Still she has done a hard job well.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW IN INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION

Delegates From Several Countries Present at Meeting Being Held in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Believing that a Christian cannot hope to measure up to what Christ expects of him without appropriating and applying the winning principles of prayer and service, the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, a world-wide order with this as one of its missions, convened here today in international convention. Five days of work are on the program, which will culminate in a religiously significant and boy power of the church.

"The purpose of the organization is to vitalize in each member his passive relationship to Christ's body, the church," said Edward H. Donnell, of Philadelphia, president of the Brotherhood in the United States, "and convert him into an active force as an enlisted soldier in Christ's army, commissioned to win the world for Christ."

Oceans and continents separate many of the delegates, the registration log showed, many days and in some cases weeks being required to reach the convention site.

4 VALUABLE VIOLINS LEFT BY CONNECTICUT MERCHANT

Stradivari Instruments Were Property of Late Archibald Mitchell of Norwich.

By the Associated Press.
NORWICH, Conn., Sept. 19.—Four valuable violins, a 1743 and a 1744, and a collection of the late Archibald Mitchell, died goods merchant, whose death occurred here recently.

They are the "Bott" Stradivari (1723), the "Elisi" Stradivari (1724), the "Jarnack" (1743) and the "Healy" Stradivari (1711). The "Bott" is regarded as one of the most widely known instruments in the United States. It was at one time owned by the Duke of Cambridge, and afterwards by Louis Spohr, passing later into the hands of the late Prof. John Kott, who, as a young man, had been a pupil of Spohr.

The "Elisi" is of exceptional size and weight, which distinguishes it from any previous or subsequent model. It was purchased about 1829 by the founder of the London Royal Academy of Music, the Earl of Westmoreland, while he was ambassador at Vienna.

The "Jarnack" is a splendid specimen. It is a contemporary of the "Paganini" Guerneri (1743), now preserved in the Municipal Palace at Genoa, which, in the hands of the great Maestro, delighted so many thousands in Europe. The "Healy" is one of the very few perfect Stradivari violins in existence.

PAUL RAINY, EXPLORER, DIES ABOARD SHIP

Victim of Paralysis While En Route to Africa, He Is Buried at Sea.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Paul J. Rainey, noted explorer and big game hunter, died aboard the British ship Saxon on route from Southampton to Cape Town, his business associates were informed today in radio messages from his sister, Mrs. Grace Rainey Rogers.

He was bound for the ranch he had carved out of the heart of the jungle near Nairobi, British East Africa, when he was stricken by a stroke of paralysis. His body was buried at sea, the messes from the ship were frozen and his personal effects were preserved in motion pictures.

His Hunting Was Restricted.
He got his first taste of adventure near the North Pole. Then he turned to the tropics, and the Government felt called upon to restrict his killings of lions and tigers, accepted a commission with the British forces, later becoming official photographer for the Red Cross in France during the world war.

After the war Rainey established a ranch where he intended making his future home in the heart of the tropics, his most happy hunting grounds, the tropical zone near Nairobi which still is looked upon as the most densely populated by ferocious jungle beasts of any region in the world. He was bound for this ranch when he died. He was unmarried.

Born in Cleveland.
Rainey was born in Cleveland, on Sept. 18, 46 years ago, and for many years had been a director of W. J. Rainey, Inc., a $10,000,000 coal and coke distributing concern founded by his father.

In 1910 he went into the Arctic with Harry Whitney on the Boethic on an expedition which netted valuable living species and was termed highly successful. A year later he went into deepest Africa. Soon reports trickled from his camps, to be corroborated later by moving pictures of hunting forays in which Rainey killed as many as five lions in three days. He killed 27 lions from a single camp near Kapiti, preserving the skins to be mounted for museums here and in England.

From then until 1918 his career was a successful one in hunting and exploration tours, through British Africa mostly, and in India.

FOUNDER OF BISCUIT CONCERN TO BE BURIED IN KANSAS CITY

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 19.—Jacob L. Loose, 73, who died yesterday at Gloucester, Mass., was the principal founder in 1902 of the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., which now does an annual business of $40,000,000. The body will be brought to Kansas City for burial next Monday, according to a message received here.

Born June 17, 1850, at Green Castle, Pa., Loose moved with his family first to Springfield, Ill., and later to Decatur, where he attended school, leaving high school when 16 years old. He clerked in a dry goods store until 1870 when, with his older brother, David A. Loose, he established a dry goods store at Cheyenne, Kan. A branch store was opened at Joplin, Mo., in 1873.

Loose moved to Kansas City in 1882 and, with another brother, the late Joseph E. Loose, bought a controlling interest in the Corbin Cracker & Candy Co., which became the Loose Brothers Manufacturing Co. Loose was instrumental in organizing the American Biscuit Co. in 1890 with headquarters in Chicago. Loose resigned as president of the American Biscuit Co. in 1897 and went to Europe for his health. In his absence, the National Biscuit Co. was organized by the consolidation of a number of companies, including the American Biscuit.

The combination was displeasing to Loose who announced he would compete with it. As a result, the Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. was formed in Kansas City. Many additional factories have been built, but headquarters have been kept here. Loose was married in 1878 to Ella Clark of Carthage, Mo., and to them were born a son and daughter, now dead.

ALDERMEN INSPECT PROPOSED SITES FOR NEW COURTHOUSE

Members of Special Committee View Broadway and Twelfth Boulevard Location.

Members of the special committee of the Board of Aldermen, appointed to investigate sites for the proposed new courthouse, today inspected the two locations suggested for the building, for which an item of $4,000,000 was included in the bond issue. The first site "visited" was that of the block surrounded by Broadway, Market, Fourth and Walnut streets. That site has been urged by the Downtown Improvement Association. The second site visited is between Twelfth boulevard, Chestnut, Eleventh and Market streets. This site is urged by the City Plan Commission. It would be across Twelfth boulevard from the Memorial Plaza, a bond issue project.

Members of the special aldermanic committee are Clinton E. Udeli, chairman; August H. Niederluecke, now in Chicago with Mayor Niel; Thomas Watts, Seventeenth Ward; Louis Lange, Sixth, and Edward Wiehe, Fifth. Udeli and Niederluecke are reported to be favorable to the plan of the Downtown Improvement Association. The other members have not indicated their position. Watts introduced the resolution providing for appointment of the special committee, which was prepared by proponents of the Broadway site.

Chairman Udeli recently stated that real estate men had informed him that the Broadway site would cost $1,250,000, which would have to be deducted from the $4,000,000 provided for the building. The city now owns the east half of the block of the Plaza site and provision is made elsewhere in the bond issue for purchase of the west half of the block at an estimated cost of $250,000. The Real Estate Exchange has requested that the committee defer action until a referendum of the membership may be taken.

The City of St. Louis, through the Bellefontaine Farms, has entered three cows and one bull at the Mississippi Valley Holstein Show and Sale to be held Oct. 4 and 5 on the circus grounds at Vandeventer and Laclede avenues. The Bellefontaine Farms has captured State records for milk production in the last two or three years. This farm never before has exhibited any dairy cattle. The Wilcox Farms at Willsville, Ill., has entered 12 Holsteins in the show. This is one of the famous herds of the Mississippi Valley, one animal having produced 26,241.51 pounds of milk in 365 days, which amounts to 73,219 gallons. This milk was sold on the St. Louis market as certified milk for an average price of $1 a gallon, therefore this animal produced $26,241.51 for the entire year. In making this record she broke several Illinois records. She was milked three times a day in the entire period.

Accused of Appropriating Church Extension Money.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The Rev. Paul Reinecke, pastor of the New Apostolic Church in Brooklyn, was arraigned before County Judge Humphrey in Long Island City yesterday afternoon on an indictment charging grand larceny in the first degree. He had been in the Queens jail since his arrest late Monday night at his home in Ridgewood. Bail was fixed at $2500, and friends today are searching for a bondsman.

The indictment charges that June 30 Reinecke appropriated $1225 of the money of Barbara Stempf, a member of the church. It is alleged he has been to appropriating his own use money of the church-extension fund.

AUTO INJURIES FATAL
TO 83-YEAR-OLD MAN

Funeral of Henry Jacobs Will Be Held at Cincinnati, His Former Home.

Henry Jacobs.

The funeral of Henry Jacobs, 83 years old, of 4954 West Pine boulevard, who died at Barnes' Hospital at 3:55 p. m. yesterday, from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile at Euclid avenue and West Pine boulevard at 2:20 p. m. Sunday, will be held at his former home, Cincinnati, Ohio, Friday. The driver of the machine that hit Jacobs was Mrs. Gertrude Maurer, 25, of 4065 West Pine boulevard, who, the police understand, has been prostrated since the accident. Following Jacobs' death his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Baum of 1111 Amsterdam place, asked that Mrs. Maurer be not arrested because of her illness. The coroner agreed to this, directing the police to notify her, however, to appear at the inquest.

Mrs. Maurer was driving west and Jacobs was crossing West Pine boulevard on the west crossing at Euclid avenue when he was hit. Several of his ribs on the right side were fractured and he was injured internally. Pneumonia set in, causing death.

His death was the ninety-second motor vehicle fatality of the year in St. Louis, one more than the number at this time last year.

Jacobs was born in Germany and was brought to America when about 2 years old. As a youth he entered the retail clothing business and eventually had his own business in Cincinnati. Upon coming to St. Louis about 20 years ago he retired. February 21, 1921, he and Mrs. Jacobs, who survives, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a dinner at Hotel Jefferson. Others who survive are a daughter in Louisville, Ky., two sons in Mexico, an 82-year-old sister in Cleveland, and 15 grandchildren. A twin sister died several years ago.

Wood River, Ill., Youth Dies As Result of Injury Sunday

Dewey McCasland, 22 years old, of Wood River, Ill., died at St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, yesterday of a fracture of the skull suffered at 6 p. m. Sunday when an automobile in which he and three other youths were riding ran off the brick pavement of the St. Louis-Alton road between Wood River and Mitchell. One arm also was fractured. The cause of the accident has not been determined, but it is understood the machine was running at a high rate of speed.

McCasland is survived by his mother, Mrs. Capitola McCasland, a widow, and 11 brothers and sisters. His body will be taken to Pocahtontas, Ill., the former family home, for burial.

The other youths, all of whom were injured and all of whom live in Wood River, are: Kenneth McCasland, three fractures of the right arm; Ed Slater, fracture of the leg and cuts; Oris Herrington, fracture of the jaw.

ALDERMEN CONFER WITH SAFETY COUNCIL ON NEW ORDINANCE

Neun Assures Members Traffic Measures of Some Kind Will Be Passed After Public Hearing.

Nine members of the Board of Aldermen, including President of the Board Walter J. G. Neun, met with the St. Louis Safety Council at the Buckingham Hotel last night in a joint discussion of the proposed ordinances being urged by the council for improvement and simplification of traffic regulations. Neun and several of the Aldermen assured the 16 council members present that the measure, or one patterned upon it, would be passed, after public hearings.

Roy F. Britton and Oliver T. Remmers, members of the special committee appointed by Mayor Kiel some time ago to draft the bill, explained its features, which include repeal of all old ordinances and a codification of all traffic regulations in a single ordinance so drafted as not to conflict with any State laws on the subject. The Commission of Streets and Sewers is empowered to make minor changes to meet shifting conditions, but provision is made for prompt veto action by the Board of Aldermen, if thought necessary. Police Judges are given broader powers covering jail sentences for careless drivers.

Rivals Her Daughter in Youthful Beauty

A well-known society matron whose youthful beauty is so well preserved that she is regarded as her daughter's rival in this respect—though she does not pose as such—attributes her girlish complexion chiefly to mercurized wax. She says: "I am convinced that many cosmetics, by overloading the skin and pores, tend to age the complexion. Mercurized wax has just the opposite effect. It keeps the pores clear, permitting them to breathe, and removes dead particles of cuticle which are constantly appearing and which give the complexion that aged look. Whenever my skin begins to age the least bit of color, mottled or faded, I go for my drugstore for an ounce of mercurized wax. I apply this nightly, like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings. This is what keeps my complexion so clear, fresh, white and soft."

Morris Greenberg, 21 years old, of 3037 North Sarah street, a barber employed in the Century Building Barber Shop, was stabbed in the left chest at 8:30 a. m. today by Thomas Koback, 20, another employee of the Century shop, following an argument in the Century Building lobby.

Greenberg told police that Koback "kidded" him when he was busy with a customer. When the customer left, Greenberg said, he invited Koback to the lobby and the stabbing followed. Greenberg was taken to city hospital.

Koback was arrested at noon at Ninth and Pine streets when on his way to the Century Shop to make inquiry regarding Greenberg's condition. Following an exchange of blows, Greenberg reached in his jacket as if to draw a razor, Koback said. He then drew a knife and stabbed Greenberg. STORY COULD NOT BE TRUE Defense Attorney's Statement Adds to Interest in Trial of Wealthy Baker's Son.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Interest in the trial of Walter S. Ward, wealthy baker's son, for the murder of Clarence S. Peters, ex-Marine, increased today because of the admission of Isaac Mills, chief counsel for the defense, that part of Ward's story could not be true.

Ward, in his first story to the authorities on events leading up to the tragedy said Peters was with the mysterious "Rosa" and "Rogers," who have never been found, on the evening before the shooting. The state was said to have proof of the fact that on the night in question Peters was on a train somewhere between Richmond, Va., and Washington.

Mills made the admission in an argument for reduction of the murder degree charged against his client.

Good Health and Beautiful Skin

—and Beautiful Skin

THE biggest question which medical science is studying today is not how to cure sickness, but how to avoid it. And doctors know the answer—almost ridiculous, it is so simple. Doctors tell you that nearly all disease may be avoided if you will keep your hands purified by constant use of a true health soap.

The chief cause of contagion is the spread of germs by the common, everyday things which are touched by many hands—public telephones, books, papers, hand rails, door knobs, money, car straps. Germs that find lodgment on your hands may easily pass to nose or mouth or onto food.

Almost the only precaution which doctors take is to wash their hands.

Lifebudy has become the most widely used toilet soap in the world, not merely because it is so pure, bland and beautifying, but because it has won recognition as an invaluable protection to health.

The old idea that a soap must be strong and violently irritating to possess germicidal value has been abandoned by health authorities.

Soap cannot be made that is more gentle and gracious to the skin than Lifebudy—yet its rich, creamy lather of the oils of palm fruit and coconut carries a wonderful antiseptic deep down into every pore, cleansing, combating germs and leaving the skin soft, sweet and tingling with health.

This health element of Lifebudy is identified by its wholesome odor which vanishes almost instantly.

Mothers—you are "Health Doctors." Your responsibility is to guard the health of children and husbands. So place a cake of Lifebudy at every place where there is running water. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

No Branch Reserve Bank for Wichita.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Federal Reserve Board yesterday rejected an application for the establishment of a branch of the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank at Wichita, Kan. Facilities provided by the Kansas City bank appeared ample to handle the business, members said.

Train Hits Truck; Two Dead.
By the Associated Press.
CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 19.—Charles Lamb, 45 years old, wealthy business man, and Mrs. John Skinner, 65, both of Tama, Ia., were killed there last night when a Chicago & Northwestern passenger train struck a motor truck, whose engine went dead with the truck in the path of the train.

CHECK COLLECTION PLAN DISAPPROVED

Federal Advisory Council Advises Reserve Board to Drop Claiborne-Adams Scheme.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Rejection of the so-called Claiborne-Adams check collection plan and adoption with changes of the Federal Reserve Board's "Regulation J," penalizing banks failing to remit at par, was recommended by the Federal Advisory Council at the conclusion of its fall session.

The Claiborne-Adams proposal was put forward by Charles De B. Claiborne of New Orleans and L. R. Adams of Atlanta. It provided for par clearance within the limits of each reserve district. It was opposed by all members of the council.

Favors "Regulation J."
"The Federal Advisory Council," a formal statement said, "having heard Messrs. Claiborne and Adams in support of the so-called Claiborne-Adams check plan and the recent amendments thereto, is of the opinion that the plan is unsound and, therefore, unanimously recommends its rejection. The council concurs in the essential objections to the plan set forth in the report of the advisory committee of reserve bank governors to the Federal Reserve Board dated Aug. 1, 1923."

As for solving the general problem of par clearance, the council said it was generally in favor of "Regulation J," the effective date of which once was set and later withdrawn. Opposition was pressed to any change being levied by reserve banks for collecting checks drawn on member banks, even though endorsed by banks not members of the system which refused to remit at par. The recommendation would take that feature out of "Regulation J," but would leave in it the provision that reserve banks shall not receive on deposit checks on non-member banks which are not collectable at par.

May Let It Work Out.
The feeling at the Reserve Board's offices seemed to be that further study should be given the entire subject before changes suggested by the council were included in the regulation. Some members of the board even declared that it might not be necessary to invoke the regulation at all. They pointed out that few banks had left the voluntary par clearance system set up within the reserve membership, and declared that so long as compulsion was not imperative they would oppose the use of the order.

It appeared uncertain when action by the board could be expected, some officials holding that further tests of the voluntary arrangement should be given.

The council adjourned without formal consideration of the board's latest problem—the question of whether limitation should be established in branch banking. It was assumed that the body decided it would await action by the Supreme Court, which is expected to interpret the law in a case arising from branch banking in St. Louis.

MAYOR WHO ISSUED EDICT AGAINST NEGROES DEFEATED

Executive at Johnstown, Pa., Running Fifth in Field of Seven for Nomination to Succeed Self.

By the Associated Press.
JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 19.—Cautel, central figure in a controversy over his order demanding all negroes residing in the city less than seven years to leave, was eliminated as a candidate for re-election, returns today from yesterday's primary indicated. In a field of seven candidates he was running fifth. Mayor Cautel issued the order after three city policemen were killed in a fight with an alleged drink-crazed negro who was killed.

Mayor Cautel announced last night that he had repudied by telegram and special delivery letter to Gov. Pinchot's telegram requesting the reasons for the city executive's recent order that negroes who have resided here for less than seven years must leave. Mayor Cautel refused to say what he told the Governor, but reiterated his order that the negroes "must pack up and go."

Asked if he would modify his stand, the Mayor declared: "No, I'm the one that's responsible for law and order and I'm going to preserve order here." He added, "All I've got to say now is: I want every negro who comes under my order and who hasn't taken warning to get out of Johnstown by this time to pack up and get out. I'm giving them fair warning."

He also told her that a visit by her to Gressoney might alarm the Princesses, and therefore Margherita returned to Gressoney.

D. & R. G. HEARING ON OCT. 3

Protest of City of St. Louis to Be Taken Up Here Later.

The protest of the city of St. Louis and business organizations here against the proposed absorption of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad by the Santa Fe system, will be presented in a hearing at Denver Oct. 3, and in a later hearing at Hotel Jefferson here, Oct. 8. City Counselor Held has been notified of the hearings, the second one having been decided upon after the city officially intervened in the proceeding.

The Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific railroads are prepared to buy the Rio Grande line as the link between them, forming a through rail line from St. Louis to San Francisco. If the Santa Fe were to obtain the Rio Grande, railroad men say, it would give Chicago a new through line to the coast, in addition to other through lines which now exist, and would leave St. Louis without such a line.

The Constitution of the United States was the subject of a talk broadcast by Radio Station K S D
last night. The speaker was Linn Paine, president of the Missouri Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and the occasion for the address was the fact that this week, the 136th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, is being celebrated throughout the nation. Paine spoke of the fact that no other nation in the history of the world ever has enjoyed so much peace, prosperity and happiness as that which has come to America under its Constitution, and urged every American, whether native or foreign born, to honor and support the Constitution of his country.

The music program of the evening was given by the Mazura
Quartet, members of which are,
Arthur F. Schmitt, Walter H.
Schmitt, tenors; Edwin F. Wake-land, baritone, and Worth M. Mc-Cown, basso. It consisted of songs by the quartet and the individuals and was well presented and greatly enjoyed. Two especially interesting numbers were a group by Arthur Schmitt and another by McCown, and many compliments for the singers were received by telephone during the evening.

ITALY HOLDS WIVES AND SONS OF AMERICANS OF ITALIAN ORIGIN

Refuses Them Permission to Return to This Country—Protests

Numerous.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News.
(Copyright, 1934)

ROME, Sept. 19.—Numerous protests have reached Consul General Homer Byington at Naples against the refusal by Italy of permission to the wives and sons of Americans of Italian descent to return to the United States. Such refusals revive the old question of citizenship.

Several European countries hold views on the subject similar to those held in Italy, that is, "once an Italian always an Italian." The present government of Italy holds further that children of Italians who have become naturalized American citizens are Italians. If they come to Italy, they become subject to military duty.

This construction, if insisted upon by all European states, would prevent many thousands of Americans from coming to Europe for business or pleasure. Wives of Italian-Americans who come to Italy are refused permission, under the present law, to leave Italy. Italy, it appears, is willing to permit emigration of young men who will remit money to their native land and return here ultimately with their accumulated savings.

Several American authorities are examining the Italian emigration situation on the spot, and it is hoped here that an agreement will be reached.

HOARDING OF AMERICAN MONEY COMMON IN FRANCE

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
PARIS, Aug. 26.—All over France men and women for years have been hoarding American currency. It became available in large quantities with the coming of American soldiers during the war, and the French were quick to see its value. Today people are wondering how many dollars are concealed in the "woolen socks" of the republic.

The estimates run from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000. Recently a Frenchman living in Chaumont, who kept a candy store during the war, disclosed to a friend a strong-box containing over $12,500 in American bills of various denominations, which he said he would sell when the franc reached 20 for $1. "There are a good many men in this town alone who have more than I," this man declared.

The exact amount of American currency left in France by American soldiers and officers probably will never be known, but many believe that if a thorough canvass of Brét,
Saint Nazaire, Bordeaux, Le Mans,
Tours, Chaumont, Alais-Bains, Vichy, Dijon and the surrounding localities were made, the total would be nearly $5,000,000.

Don't Neglect Pyorrhea

It is said that four out of every five people over 40 years old, and countless thousands younger, have Pyorrhea. Neglected, it means sooner or later the loss of many or all of your teeth. It makes the gums unsightly, often destroying the beauty of an otherwise pretty mouth. In addition, diseased teeth and gums cause many other diseases. Indigestion, stomach, kidney, liver and heart trouble; rheumatism and other systemic disorders are often directly traceable to Pyorrhea. A thorough medical or physical examination now always includes an X-ray of the teeth. It has been found that an unhealthy condition of the mouth, diseased gums, pus pockets, etc., are a prolific source of disease.
Pyorrhea pours its poisonous pus and germs into the blood stream and stomach. Stop Pyorrhea and save your teeth as well as improve your general health. Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy insures a mouth free from Pyorrhea,
a healthy, germ-free mouth.

Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy

This is a liquid healing agent and germicide of unusual and far-reaching power.

It is applied locally and, while immediate in its action, it is harmless to living tissue. Does not corrode or tarnish any kind of fillings.

Unusual success in the treatment of Pyorrhea has followed the use of this remarkable remedy. Long held practically incurable, Pyorrhea now—like many other diseases—yields readily to proper treatment. Its ravages can be checked—teeth saved—the general health made better, and the looks improved.

Results with Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy are noticed from the start. Affected gums soon get firm and pink and bleeding ceases. Pus discharges are stopped.
Loose teeth become tight. The mouth feels fresh, sweet and clean and soon assumes its healthy, comfortable condition. All signs of Pyorrhea disappear.

The germicidal powder, while in use, is not lessened through dilution by saliva—an unusual and distinctive factor of efficiency.

Moore's Tooth Paste

(for Pyorrhea)

Clean, sound, white teeth are not alone protection against Pyorrhea. This is a disease of the gums and the tissues holding the teeth in place, and not a disease of the teeth themselves. Brushing the teeth regularly with ordinary tooth paste is no protection against this disease. In fact, many authorities say harsh, gritty tooth pastes are frequent causes of Pyorrhea.

Moore's Tooth Paste contains no pumice, no grit, no soap, no irritating ingredient. It is made especially for Pyorrhea conditions. It whitens and polishes the teeth without scratching. At the same time it contains the active principles of Moore's Pyorrhea Remedy. It is therefore healing, soothing, cleansing. And it keeps the tooth brush clean—free from germs.

Moore's Tooth Paste should be used regularly. It means better, whiter, cleaner teeth—set solidly in firm, healthy gums. It means a prettier mouth—a healthier mouth. It prevents and checks Pyorrhea.

Manion Four Down to Von Elm After 18 Holes in National Amateur Golf Title Tourney

St. Louisan Trailing in Second Round Match—Willie Hunter, Who Eliminated Evans, 2 Up on Outmet After 18 Holes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FLOSSMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—James S. Manion of Midland Valley Club, St. Louis, holder of the Missouri State and St. Louis District titles, was 4 down to George von Elm of Salt Lake City after the morning round of 18 holes in the National Amateur Golf Championship tourney here today.

Both players shot good medal scores, there being a difference of but 1 stroke between Manion's card and that of Von Elm.

The cards:

Von Elm out A. M. 415 485 441—39.

Manion out A. M. 547 755 454—12.

Von Elm in, A. M. 535 245 455—39.

Manion in, A. M. 545 245 465—41.

Manion reached the second round by defeating Francis Blossom of Chicago, 3 up and 2.

At the end of the morning round, being four up after the morning round and always having the match well in hand.

Eddie Held, the other St. Louis entrant, was eliminated yesterday by Demetrius Shute of Huntington, W. Va.

Held finished the morning round one up, but in the afternoon Shute stroked the course in 71, tying Von Elm's morning round, and Held was put to rout, 3 up and one.

Although he had reached the class where he was playing for the national amateur title, Shute had not acquired the information that the matches in the tournament would be at 18 holes.

At the end of the morning round, therefore, he shook hands with Held, congratulating him on his victory.

Held explained that the match was only half over and Shute was so delighted to find that there still was hope that he went out after lunch and proceeded to knock off birds and pars with reckless abandon.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Jess Sweetser, New York, defending national amateur golf champion, was 2 up on Dave Herron, Chicago, after 18 holes of their second round match at the Flossmoor Country Club here today.

Sweetser won the first hole with a birdie, but dropped the fifth by going one above par. They halved the next four holes with a birdie and a birdie three on the 11th and eighth.

Sweetser had to jump a stymie on the long sixth hole to get his par four and was deprived of a birdie three on the ninth when Herron laid him another stymie.

Sweetser had to shoot two better than par on the second nine to gain his two-hole lead over Herron, who was even par on both nines.

The champion won the tenth hole with a par five when Herron got into trouble, and took the eleventh and thirteenth with birdie two, although Herron was played the twelfth and thirteenth to the Chicagoan's birdie three, but won the long fifteenth with a par four when Herron fell short on his second.

Sweetser-Herron card: Sweetser, out (morning) 445 454 334—38.

Herron, out (morning) 445 444 334—36.

Sweetser, in (morning) 525 244 455—36—72.

Herron, in (morning) 525 244 455—36—74.

Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open champion, finished his morning round two up to Max Marston of Philadelphia but he had to shoot 34-36—70, four under par in order to have that advantage over Max Marston, who nipped one stroke off perfect figures himself.

Willie Hunter, Los Angeles, was a up on Francis Outmet of Boston, at the end of 18 holes.

Outmet was not playing any too well today, tossing away a number of shots and having lost the second hole, was one down at the turn, going into the morning 40.

He slipped further on the second nine and was three down at the 13th tee, but he took the last hole of the morning session with a birdie four while Hunter hooked his brassie second and scored a par five.

Jess Guilford, Boston, title holder in 1921, was two up to Dexter Cummings, Chicago, intercollegiate champion, at the end of 18 holes of the second round.

Demetrius Shute, finished the first eighteen one up to Ned Allis of Milwaukee, while Bob Gardner of Chicago, overcame a handicap of one down on the first nine and adjourned for luncheon two up to Bill Fowles, of Pittsburgh.

Giants Pound Jess Haines and Barfoot to Defeat Cardinals

Errors by Rickey's Young Infielders Also Help World's Champions to Easy Victory—Captain Bancroft Turns Feature Play in Sixth Inning.

By Joseph F. Holland.

Dave Bancroft, captain of the New York Giants, fumbled a grounder in the sixth inning of the game with the Cardinals, yesterday, and filled the bases for one fleeting moment. Then, almost before the crowd realized that a rally was in progress, this same Bancroft had atoned for his error and retired the Cardinals, simply because he anticipated what a young base runner would do. It was the one play in a drab, uninteresting game that showed the resourcefulness of a champion.

The Giants would have won without that play, but it looked just as if they would.

Artie Nehf had held the Cardinals to two hits and was leading 6 to 0 when the Cardinals came in for their half of the sixth. Three hits gave them a second run after two were out and then Bancroft's play materialized.

Recruit Shortstop Trapped.

Lester Bell, the Houston recruit, was on second and Clemons on first when Freigau shot a hot bouncer to short that Bancroft fumbled, filling the bases.

He knew his play at first base was lost, but without hesitating he recovered the ball and threw to Groh at third. Bell did as all ball players will do. He turned third base and then passed to look at the play.

When he turned, Heinie Groh was waiting there to tag him for the out that retired the side and saved Nehf from the only threatening situation in which he found himself in the entire game.

The importance of the play in the particular game of yesterday was minimized by the fact that the thundering attack of the Giants beat down upon the Cardinal defenses for 10 runs. But it mattered little to Dave Bancroft that his team was five runs ahead. The play was a complete thing in itself, regardless of the stage of the game or any other circumstances.

It is the reason that the Giants are champions. They take advantage of every lapse. The Cardinals could not hope to win the game because they were not alive to the possibilities of it. They apparently accepted the idea that Freigau would be thrown out by the Giant captain. When the break occurred it surprised them and they were not prepared to use it.

The Giants are "prepping" for the world's series. They are going along confidently, confident in their ability to drive out 15 hits a game and to win a world's series. Because it was not needed, it did not fall to carry the point that the Cardinals play every string to the limit.

Brownies' Final In Washington Is Scheduled Today

Austin's Men, Weakened by Absence of Shocker, Go to New York Tomorrow.

From a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Browns' final game in Washington for this season is carded for this afternoon and no matter which team wins the men of Austin will remain in fourth place in the pennant race.

The Browns will have hard sledding in New York, through the absence of Shocker, and the Griffs still have a chance of working into the first division.

Manager Austin says he will work either Dixie Davis or Wright this afternoon and either man can make very hard sledding for the locals.

Manager Bush once more says he will work Morgridge, but George is fox and does not care for the Browns' game, so that another youngster, McQuinn, may take the mark against them.

Danforth looked like another man yesterday than the one who showed Monday and he had the Griffs shooting at ducks throughout that first game. 10 men being left on the bags, showing how effective Dave was when the pinch came. He appeared to have everything. He beat the Senators, 8 to 1. The Senators took the second game, 2 to 1.

Hard luck still clings to the Griffs in the matter of having players hurt. Zachary sprained his knee in the first game yesterday and had to retire and Mike Martin, the club's rubber, says Zack is through for the season.

Bucky Harris hurt his leg in Monday's double-header and will be laid up for some time. Bush has a bunch of youngsters on the bench and the chances are he will have to call on them to help out.

When the Griffs pulled a double play in the first inning of the second game it totaled up 165 and equalled the major league mark they established last season. With approximately 13 games to play, the Griffs have a good chance of hanging up a new record in double plays for the major league teams to shoot at.

Demetrius Shute, finished the first eighteen one up to Ned Allis of Milwaukee, while Bob Gardner of Chicago, overcame a handicap of one down on the first nine and adjourned for luncheon two up to Bill Fowles, of Pittsburgh.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Dempsey and the Rules.

THE New York Athletic Commission very naturally took no cognizance of the rule violations said to have been committed by Dempsey during the cyclonic scramble with Firpo.

Had it done so, the commission would have had to overrule practically every title fight ever fought since it came into being.

It is the writer's experience that no title fight ever strictly conformed to the regulations, particularly those under commission rules.

That Dempsey fouled, according to strict ruling, is unquestioned; but Referee Johnny Gallagher did no more than other referees have done when he allowed to pass some few trifling offenses.

Aid to Dempsey O. K.

THE outstanding offense related to the return of Dempsey to the ring after he was knocked head-first, backward into the laps of Grantland Rice and another reporter.

Mr. Rice's position in the matter can be appreciated. When 192 pounds of athlete is precipitated into one's commissary department forcibly, the natural impulse is to get rid of the intruder.

Reporters who bore the brunt of the assault naturally did not allow Dempsey to lie there, but pushed him off. The burden was not comfortable.

The pictures show that, after Dempsey reached the ring, he crawled unaided back into the ring which was enough to accomplish for a man sent out of the ring as violently as he had been.

The Case of Leonard.

REFEEREE GALLAGHER had a precedent for his course. As pointed out in the writer's story the day after the fight, Ed Smith, at Benton Harbor, permitted Benny Leonard to be assisted back into the ring after Charley White had knocked him out of it.

In Leonard's case, as in Dempsey's, the man who had catapulted him from the ring subsequently was knocked out.

As for Dempsey's other offenses against the rules they were negligible and are seen in every ring contest. It was not a foul when Dempsey dropped his man as Firpo turned away his head to look at the referee. It was ring alertness which, under the rules, may be taken advantage of.

In St. Louis we once saw a fighter knocked out when he turned his head to exhortate.

Dempsey hit on the breakaway and failed to return to his corner after a knockdown on one occasion. He also hit Firpo very hard on the forehead, and the referee had left the floor, after a knockdown.

The last was not a legal offense, but an unsportsmanlike one. However, under the whirlwind circumstances, it was but natural that fighters, officials and spectators alike should forget themselves.

The blame was neither Dempsey's nor Gallagher's, but was due to the frenzy of excitement aroused by unusual conditions.

Other Title Fouls.

ONLY two weeks before, under no influence of excitement, a New York referee stood for more foul fighting than the writer has seen in a long time—deliberate fouls.

That was in the middle-weight championship between Harry Greb and Johnny Wilson. Greb fouled throughout the contest. His methods were those of a street brawler. Wilson tried to fight cleanly, but Greb disregarded warning after warning. Once the referee cautioned him to stop, he stepped him in the middle of a round; but he let him keep it up to the close and take the title from Wilson.

At Shelby, Referee Dougherty permitted all sorts of fouls. Hitting and holding was common. Dempsey hit Gibbons several times below the belt. And, above all, Dougherty allowed Gibbons to have onto Dempsey's arm for the last four rounds of the battle without making a pretense of fighting.

TOO TRUE

Owing to income tax complications, Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey will not open any more million-dollar jack pots this year. If they did they would have to fight on a basis of Uncle Sam take all.

Airplanes are now flying in flocks over the city. But they don't honk their horns like the wild geese.

The 1933 baseball schedule is a most fearful and wonderful thing. It is not only long-drawn out and full of open dates but it will soon be conflicting with the Hot Stove League schedule which is contrary to all the unwritten laws of baseball.

Starting a world's series on the tenth of October is flying in the face of weather prophets and precedent. But as it is strictly a New York affair we should worry.

At that it will probably be a cold day when any other city gets a w. s. The powers that be have so willed it.

WHY NOT?

In order to make it worth while for the 14 clubs outside of New York proper, why not have a world's series between the runners-up instead of giving them the crumbs that fall from the main banquet table?

Felix Bunge says that Firpo will be the next world's champion.

However, Felix's record as a long-distance predictor is not impressive.

Incidentally when Firpo knocked, pushed, shoved or propelled the champ out of the ring into the lap of a newspaper man he came within an ace of winning the fight by a lap.

He came so near winning that he is probably the greatest near-champion in the ring today.

As we get it Gov. Walton of Oklahoma can't see the "Invisible Empire."

TWO MEN GET LIFE TERMS FOR KILLING OF POLICEMAN

Clayton Jury, After Less Than Two Hours' Deliberation, Convicts Oliver Hamilton and Clarence Daniels of Murder of William Griffin in Holdup of Inn.

NO TESTIMONY IN DEFENSE OFFERED

Lawyer Said That the State Had Subpoenaed All the Witnesses—Prosecutor Jones Had Asked for the Death Penalty.

Oliver Hamilton and Clarence Daniels were found guilty of the murder of Patrolman William E. Griffin of St. Louis by a jury in Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton today, and their punishment was set at life imprisonment. The jury rendered the verdict less than two hours.

No testimony was offered in defense of the two men, and the court's instructions left the jury only the choice between convicting them of first-degree murder or acquitting them. Prosecuting Attorney Adam Jones asked the jury to fix the death penalty, as it had the power to do.

Some of the jurors voted for the death penalty, but by agreement, they did not tell who, or how many, had so voted.

Hamilton and Daniels were held, by the verdict of a city Coroner's jury, for the murder of John L. Sargent, a Carondelet merchant, who was killed and thrown from his automobile as the Cuckoo Gang party, including Hamilton and Daniels, was passing from the scene of the killing of Griffin, at Telegraph inn, St. Louis County, early in the morning of June 10, last. Sargent is presumed to have been killed in the city, as his body was found within the city limits. The police turned over Hamilton and Daniels to the county, considering that the Griffin case was the stronger one on which to prosecute them.

Leo Cronin, Layman Burleson and August Webb, who were indicted for the murder of Hamilton and Daniels for the Griffin murder, are to be tried in Clayton soon. A sixth indicted man, Harry Massey, has not been arrested. He is the same character as that of Hamilton and Daniels, came out incidentally in the testimony in the Hamilton-Daniels case.

Daniels' Mother in Court. When the verdict was read, Daniels' mother and a young woman sat near her wept. The prisoners were taken back to jail without any remarks or demonstration on their part.

The case was the first important criminal prosecution which Prosecuting Attorney Jones has conducted. He said, he had always felt that a prosecutor should be very careful about making such a request for a jury, but that in this case, his conscience would rebuke him if he asked anything less than the death penalty. "This crime was worthy of a death, not a human being," he declared.

Defense Assails Police. The Judge's instructions were that the jury should find the two defendants guilty of murder in the first degree, if it found that they were guilty of a conspiracy to rob, and if further found that the murder was committed by either of them in furtherance of that conspiracy.

Attorney Stevens, in his argument, assailed the State's case had been manufactured, chiefly by the St. Louis police. "What chance had a man with all these policemen?" he asked. He intimated, though there was a thing, that other policemen might have been at Telegraph inn, a quarrel, and then agreed to place the blame on the two defendants. He charged that Patrolman Griffin was a party in the room surrounded by Daniels and three gang members, all under indictment with him, was "painted" there by a prearranged police party, which, as it appeared from the State's testimony, were there to rob the men, and that the men would have left their own weapons where the police would find them, than that
